-- McDonald To Be New Naval Chief -- JFK DROPS ANDERSON

—MASS ARRESTS CONTINUE—

Comic Leads Negro March

Birmingham, Ala. — Hundreds of Negroes skipped school Monday and followed Negro comedian Dick Gregory to jail in a series of marches protesting racial segregation.

An estimated 1,000 were arrested. A jailer, who made the estimate, said 90% were teenagers.

With the latest mass demonstration, total arrests in the past 5 days of racial unrest soared near 2,400. Most of the Negroes have chosen to stay in custody, filling up local jails.

March In Twos

The Negroes, holding placards decrying segregation, marched in twos from a church to a waiting line of policemen about a block away, although some groups took other routes.

There were at least 18 waves of demonstrators, including some small children.

Shuttled into school buses, their placards taken away, the Negroes waved, laughed and sang freedom songs as they rode off to city jail. Approximately 2,000 Negroes watched and cheered from street corners and sidewalks.

Not Serious

There was no serious disorder. A Negro leader had promised police officials prior to the marches that he would control the Negro spectators.

After the marches from the church, two other groups of Negroes walked two abreast from the courthouse to a motel about 6 blocks away. They were not arrested. Policemen already had left the area.

Then about 200 Negroes gathered in the motel courtyard. They sang and marched about.

"This is a spontaneous celebration for the victory at the jail," said the Rev. F. L. Shuttlesworth, Birmingham Negro leader.

"We succeeded in filling the jails. Our demonstrations will continue. We are not going to stop."

Police worked late processing prisoners as officials pondered the problem of housing the demonstrators.

Fair Grounds

City jail, with a capacity of 900, had 846 prisoners before Monday's arrests. County facilities, with 500 capacity, already had nearly 600 prisoners. Some of the overflow went to a state fairgrounds building.

The demonstration began shortly after noon and followed hours of waiting while Negro leaders marshaled the young demonstrators.

School officials reported some Negro schools were nearly empty Monday morning and one leader said more than 1,000 children were ready to participate in the demonstration.

Motion to kill was proposed on Cecil Craft of North Platte, who insisted that provisions of LB347 would transform the state labor commissioner into a "czar" in the field of civil rights empowered to act both as "judge and jury."

The bill prohibits discrimination in employment because of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry. It hands enforcement powers to the labor commissioner.

Sen. Edward Danner of Omaha, chief sponsor of the measure and the only Negro member of the unicameral, said the bill will "not destroy an employer's right to hire who he pleases."

Dignity, Honor

But, he said, it will "allow everyone to meet the economic problems of life" and allow members of his race to "walk with dignity and honor."

Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala supported Danner, declaring that "everyone ought to have a fair chance, an unbiased opportunity to present his abilities to an employer."

Hearing On NU Budget Completed

By BETTY PERSON

Star Staff Writer

The Budget Committee Monday wound up its 6 days of public hearings on the University of Nebraska's 1963-65 budget request — the longest series of public hearings on any single agency's appropriations request.

Items considered in the final day's hearing included the colleges of law, pharmacy, and teachers, summer sessions, libraries, NU's television station and buildings and grounds.

Walter K. Beggs, dean of the Teachers College, explained to the committee that his request for some $109,000 for new positions stemmed largely from increased enrollment.

Beggs said that about 60% of NU-educated teachers go into Nebraska schools.

Teachers In Demand

The quest for teachers nationwide is "as acute" as any he has known in 30 years, he said, explaining that the college received 26,000 requests for teachers last year — and that 2,500 of these requests came from Nebraska schools.

David Dow, dean of the College of Law, reported that 75% of the graduates of that college remain in Nebraska.

He said the law school has 150 students now and that this could be increased to 200 with the present staff. He asked for no growth and development funds.

Pharmacy Grows

Dean R. D. Gibson of the College of Pharmacy told the committee that enrollment has jumped from 39 students two years ago to 123 for the current semester, with expectations it will reach 185 by the end of the next biennium.

Asked the reasons for the increase, Dean Gibson said that retail druggists over the state have become aware of the fact that if they are to get any relief, they have to go out into their communities and recruit young people into the profession — and their ef-

Fair Employment Act Dies On Floor

... ONLY 12 VOTE IN FAVOR

By DON WALTON

A Fair Employment Practices Act which made history when it was advanced to the floor of the Legislature died there Monday on a 28-12 vote.

The measure, LB347, could muster only 12 votes to advance from general file before it was given the ax.

However, a move to revive the issue loomed immediately when Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings announced that he was voting with the majority to kill "for purposes of reconsideration."

This parliamentary maneuver will allow Marvel to offer a motion to reconsider the action.

Motion to kill was proposed on Cecil Craft of North Platte, who insisted that provisions of LB347 would transform the state labor commissioner into a "czar" in the field of civil rights empowered to act both as "judge and jury."

Over 25,000 Expected To Cast Ballots

An estimated 25,000 to 27,000 Lincoln voters will go to the polls Tuesday to elect the city's first full-time mayor.

The city's 113 polling places will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In addition to the mayor, the electorate will fill 4 seats on the City Council, two on the school board, and 3 on the Airport Authority.

Also on the ballot will be a charter amendment proposal that would permit the council to order ornamental lighting assessment districts within a half-mile of City Hall without petition.

The April primary election turnout was some 18,200 voters. Previous general election high was 19,656 in 1951.

Keeps LeMay For One Year

Washington (AP)—President Kennedy jolted the Pentagon Monday by dropping Adm. George W. Anderson Jr. as chief of naval operations.

In a less surprising action, he kept Gen. Curtis E. LeMay as Air Force chief of staff although the appointment was for only one year, rather than the customary two.

Kennedy's decisions — on recommendations made by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara — were a closely held secret until announced by the White House.

There had been speculation for some time that LeMay was on his way out, purportedly because he bucked administration decisions to hold back on the RS70 bomber and drop the Skybolt booster-launched missile.

No Rumor

But there had been no breath of rumor that the big, handsome Anderson was in any difficulty.

He testified before a Senate subcommittee probing the controversial TFX fighter plane contract and said he favored the Boeing Co. model rather than the General Dynamics Co. version which was adopted by McNamara. But so did LeMay.

Kennedy named Anderson and LeMay, each 56, to two-year terms on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. LeMay's term ends June 30 and Anderson's Aug. 1.

Little Older

For the new CNO, Kennedy picked Adm. David L. McDonald, 3 months older than Anderson and former commander of the mighty 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

McDonald, a native of Maysville, Ga., now making his home in Hollywood, Fla., took over only a month ago as commander in chief of U.S. naval forces in Europe and adjoining waters.

This recent assignment — and the quick change in plans boosting McDonald to CNO — was one of the puzzling aspects of the command shake-up.

Gorgeous

White House spokesman Andrew T. Hatcher said Anderson — sometimes called "Gorgeous George" because of his imposing appearance — has been offered a position with the government.

Hatcher said Kennedy hopes Anderson will accept the post which Hatcher said he was not at liberty to disclose.

But Anderson didn't rush to accept the offer, saying in a statement:

"My own plans following the completion of my tour as CNO on Aug. 1 have not been formulated."

FERRIS WHEEL RIDERS RESCUED

The Nashville, Tenn., Fire Department snorkel rescuer was used to remove 35 ferris wheel riders when a cable broke on the ride at an amusement park. All the riders were stranded for several hours. Those on the lower seats, who could have stepped off easily, had to remain to maintain the wheel's balance. No one aboard the 55-foot wheel was injured.

Dominican Forces Poised; Haiti Turns To U.N. For Aid

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—Dominican land, sea and air forces were poised on the Haitian border and coasts Monday night awaiting only an order from President Juan Bosch to invade. Diplomatic efforts to ward off a clash bogged down.

Dominican government sources said thousands of army troops streamed into positions along the Haiti border overnight to bolster forces already there, and more troops were dispatched during the day.

Dominican air force planes were reported in the air above the frontier. Navy units joined U.S. warships patrolling the Caribbean off Haiti or took up stations virtual ly within shelling range of Haiti, the informants said.

Rumors Spread

Rumors spread through Santo Domingo that an invasion was imminent. Bosch was reported prepared to strike into Haiti on the slightest excuse in an effort to bring down the dictatorship of President Francois Duvalier.

AP correspondent Morris Rosenberg reported from Port Au Prince, the Haitian capital, that the Duvalier regime seemed to be doing its utmost to avoid any tactical provocation that might touch off an attack. And the United States was reported urging Bosch not to invade lest it attack rally Haitians around the Duvalier regime, which Washington also would like to see removed from the hemispheric scene.

Bosch scheduled a special television and radio address to the nation for 6 p.m., CST, Tuesday. The government gave no hint as to what he might say, but the announcement of the speech suggested time was running out for diplomats seeking a peaceful solution.

For the moment, at least, the Dominican government seemed to be willing to accept a peaceful solution, and it played down its military preparations. Informants said the United States, through Ambassador John Bartlow Martin, had impressed upon Bosch that a Dominican invasion would arrive the aggrieved party and damage the Dominican cause in the OAS.

Martin conferred with Bosch Monday afternoon and said afterward that the situation was such that "I cannot comment or even speculate."

Alerted

Bosch also conferred with the chiefs of the army, navy and air force. He said later that "the armed forces have been alerted and placed on the border to take action in case our sovereignty is not respected."

The foreign ministry said, however, that "we obviously are trying in every way possible not to have to use the armed forces with Haiti."

Duvalier is said to have ordered a bloodbath of his enemies inside Haiti if his regime is threatened with collapse. These would include 15 Haitians in refuge in the Dominican Embassy in Port Au Prince. Bosch has demanded that they be permitted to leave Haiti unharmed.

Controversial Area Annexed

... COURT TEST LIKELY

By VIRGIL FALLOON

Star Staff Writer

The controversial 8-block Midway Addition — annexed nearly two months ago by West Lincoln — was annexed to Lincoln by the City Council on a 5-2 vote Monday.

The action is expected to precipitate a District Court test between the city and village as to which has legally annexed the area.

The West Lincoln board annexed the Midway area in a special meeting after learning the city was preparing to take in the same area.

Several residents and property owners later appeared before the council, claiming most of the property owners preferred to be annexed by Lincoln rather than the village.

Otherwise, no action would be taken until 1965.

Johnson, 45, was first appointed to the tax post by the late Gov. Ralph Brooks effective Dec. 15, 1959. Morrison reappointed him following the governor's election in 1960.

Judging by the upheaval in the South and continuing race riots in Alabama, Carpenter said, "we are re-enacting 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' by turning the dogs loose on them."

Johnson Is Renamed To Tax Post

Gov. Frank Morrison Monday reappointed State Tax Commissioner Forrest A. Johnson to a 6-year term effective Sept. 16.

The appointment was presented to the Legislature for confirmation, and was referred to the 13-member Committee on Committees for its recommendation.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff declared that it would be "bad judgment" not to confirm Johnson's reappointment while the Legislature is in session.

Otherwise, no action would be taken until 1965.

Faulkner's 'Reivers' Wins Pulitzer Prize

TOP PRIZE TO CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

New York (UPI) — William Faulkner's last work, "The Reivers," a lighthearted novel of his native south, Monday won him posthumously the 1963 Pulitzer Prize for fiction. There was no award this year for drama.

Faulkner, who died of a heart attack last July 6 at the age of 64, previously had won a Pulitzer Prize in 1955. President Kennedy said of him in eulogy:

"Since Henry James, no writer has left behind such a vast and enduring monument to the strength of American literature."

Top prize in the newspaper category, the Meritorious Public Service Award of a gold medal, went to the Chicago Daily News, for its series presenting all points of view on the controversial subject of birth control services in the public health programs of its circulation area.

Third Time — It was the third Pulitzer Prize for the Daily News. Cited specifically by Columbia University trustees who announced the awards were staff writer Lois Wile, reporter Horton Trautman, and state capital correspondent Henry M. Hanson.

Favored in advance for the drama award had been Edward Albee's Broadway hit, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" a caustic drama on faculty, sex and politics at a small New England university. It had won citations from the New York Drama Critics Circle, the American Theater Wing, and the American National Theater and Academy.

A member of the Pulitzer Prize advisory committee, who declined to be quoted by name, said:

"There was no row, no hint of one. The committee simply felt that no play was worthy of an award. This was a poor year."

The Pulitzer Prize for news photography for 1963 went to Hector Rondon of La Republica, Caracas, Venezuela, for his picture of a priest aiding a wounded soldier during a two-day revolt in Venezuela last June. It was distributed to newspapers around the world exclusively by the Associated Press.

Other journalism awards were:

Local reporting under deadline pressure — reporters Sylvan Fox, Anthony Shannon and William Longgood of the New York World-Telegram and Sun, for their coverage of an American airlines jet plane crash March 1, 1962, at Idlewild Airport in New York. The crash killed all 95 persons aboard.

Local reporting without deadline pressure — Oscar

Griffin, Jr., for his work as editor of the Pecos, Tex., Independent in publishing the first articles that led to the exposure of the Billie Sol Estes case. The resultant investigation ended with the prosecution and conviction of Estes. Griffin now is on the staff of the Houston Chronicle.

National reporting — Anthony Lewis of the New York Times, for his coverage of the United States Supreme Court during 1962. He won a previous Pulitzer Prize in 1955 while a reporter for the Washington Daily News for a series of articles clearing a Navy employee who had been dismissed as a security risk.

International reporting — Hal Hendrix of the Miami, Fla., News, for stories revealing the Russian buildup in Cuba, and the presence there of MiG aircraft a missile launching pads.

Editorial writing — Ira B. Harkey, Jr., of the Pascagoula, Miss., Chronicle, for his editorials on the integration issue in Mississippi and the rioting at the University of Mississippi when Negro James Meredith was admitted as a student.

Cartoon — Frank Miller of the Des Moines Register, for his work during the year, exemplified in a cartoon showing a destroyed world with one ragged figure calling to another, "I said — we sure settled that dispute, didn't we?"

Other awards in the field of letters were:

General non-fiction — Barbara W. Tuchman for "The Guns of August," a best-selling account of the first 30 days of fighting in World War I.

History — Constance McLaughlin Green, for "Washington, Village and Capital, 1800-1878," a history of the nation's capital, the first volume of a projected two volume work. It was sponsored originally by the Rockefeller Foundation, and later supported by the Chapelbrook Foundation of Boston.

Biography — Leon Edel for "Henry James, Vol. II, The Conquest of London, and Vol. III, The Middle Years." Long known as an authority on James, Edel is a professor of English at New York University.

Poetry — William Carlos Williams for "Pictures From Brueghel," it was another posthumous award. Williams died March 4.

Music — Samuel Barber for his "Piano Concerto No. 1," which had its world premiere by the Boston Symphony Sept. 24 during the opening week of the new Philharmonic Hall at New York's Lincoln Center. He won a Pulitzer Prize in 1958 for his opera "Vanessa."

21 Mississippi Valley Deans Meet To Talk

Twenty-one deans from 17 Mississippi Valley colleges are meeting through Tuesday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in an informal discussion program.

"This is an unusual organization," said Dean Walter Miltzer of the University of Nebraska College of Arts and Sciences. "There are no officers and no dues, no agenda and no official program. We simply meet every year and talk over the problems we have in common."

Services will be held in Bethesda Episcopal Church with the Rev. W. Benjamin Holmes officiating. Burial was to be in Greenridge Cemetery.

Faulkner's 'Reivers' Wins Pulitzer Prize

TOP PRIZE TO CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

New York (UPI) — William Faulkner's last work, "The Reivers," a lighthearted novel of his native south, Monday won him posthumously the 1963 Pulitzer Prize for fiction. There was no award this year for drama.

Faulkner, who died of a heart attack last July 6 at the age of 64, previously had won a Pulitzer Prize in 1955. President Kennedy said of him in eulogy:

"Since Henry James, no writer has left behind such a vast and enduring monument to the strength of American literature."

Top prize in the newspaper category, the Meritorious Public Service Award of a gold medal, went to the Chicago Daily News, for its series presenting all points of view on the controversial subject of birth control services in the public health programs of its circulation area.

Third Time

It was the third Pulitzer Prize for the Daily News. Cited specifically by Columbia University trustees who announced the awards were staff writer Lois Wille, reporter Horton Trautman, and state capital correspondent Henry M. Hanson.

Favored in advance for the drama award had been Edward Albee's Broadway hit, "Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolf?", a caustic drama on faculty, sex and politics at a small New England university. It had won citations from the New York Drama Critics Circle, the American Theater Wing, and the American National Theater and Academy.

A member of the Pulitzer Prize advisory committee, who declined to be quoted by name, said:

"There was no row, no hint of one. The committee simply felt that no play was worthy of an award. This was a poor year."

The Pulitzer Prize for news photography for 1963 went to Hector Rondon of La Republica, Caracas, Venezuela, for his picture of a priest aiding a wounded soldier during a two-day revolt in Venezuela last June. It was distributed to newspapers around the world exclusively by the Associated Press.

Other journalism awards were:

Editorial writing — Ira B. Harkey, Jr., of the Pascagoula, Miss., Chronicle, for his editorials on the integration issue in Mississippi and the rioting at the University of Mississippi when Negro James Meredith was admitted as a student.

Cartoon — Frank Miller of the Des Moines Register, for his work during the year, exemplified in a cartoon showing a destroyed world with one ragged figure calling to another, "I said—we sure settled that dispute, didn't we?"

Other awards in the field of letters were:

General non-fiction — Barbara W. Tuchman for "The Guns of August," a best-selling account of the first 30 days of fighting in World War I.

History — Constance McLaughlin Green, for "Washington, Village and Capital, 1800-1878," a history of the nation's capital, the first volume of a projected two volume work. It was sponsored originally by the Rockefeller Foundation, and later supported by the Chapelbrook Foundation of Boston.

Biography — Leon Edel for "Henry James, Vol. II, The Conquest of London, and Vol. III, The Middle Years." Long known as an authority on James, Edel is a professor of English at New York University.

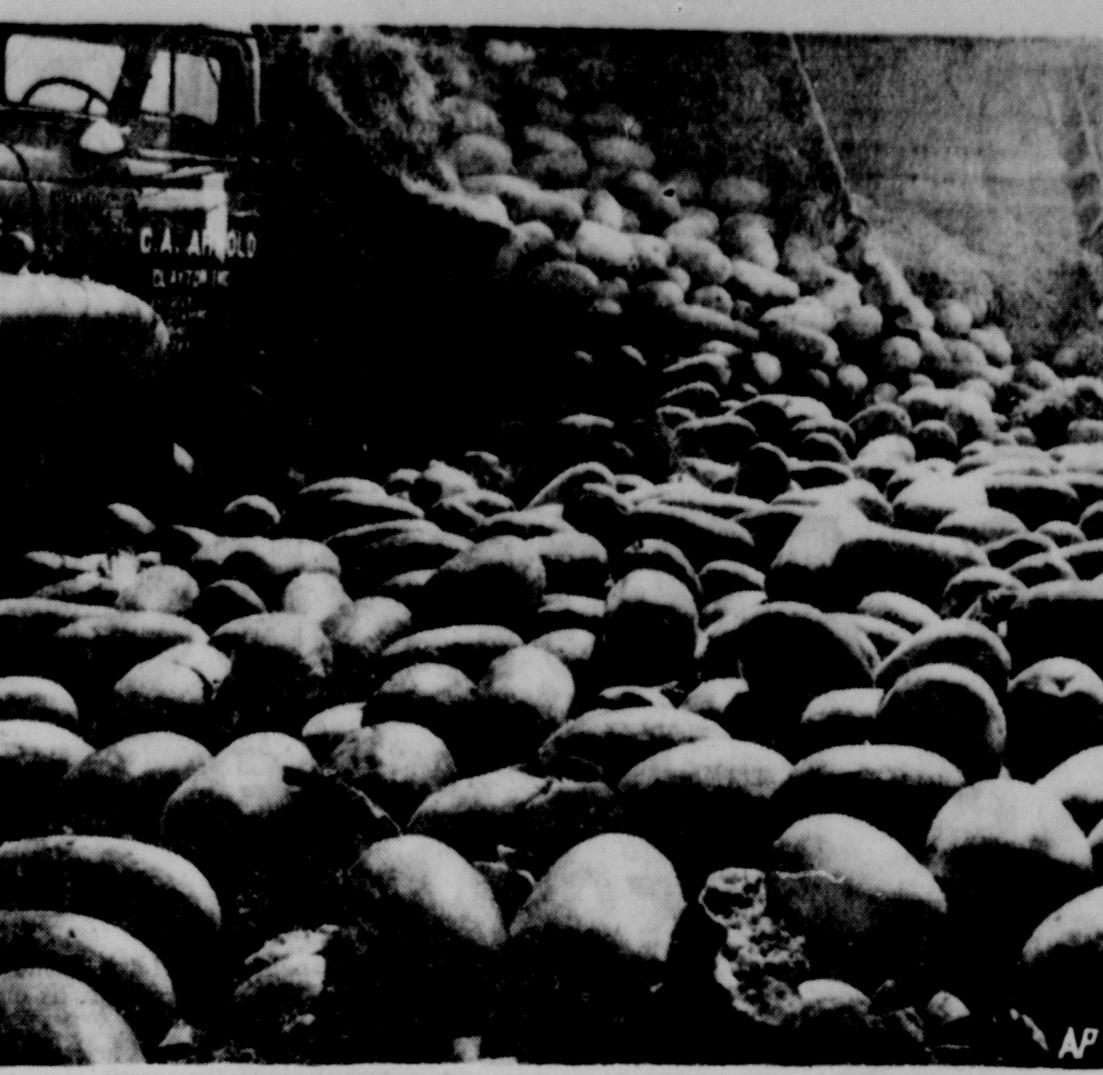

Poetry — William Carlos Williams for "Pictures From Breughel," it was another posthumous award. Williams died March 4.

Music — Samuel Barber for his "Piano Concerto No. 1," which had its world premier by the Boston Symphony Sept. 24 during the opening week of the new Philharmonic Hall at New York's Lincoln Center. He won a Pulitzer Prize in 1958 for his opera "Vanessa."

21 Mississippi Valley Deans Meet To Talk

Twenty-one deans from 17 Mississippi Valley colleges are meeting through Tuesday at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education in an informal discussion program.

"This is an unusual organization," said Dean Walter Miltzler of the University of Nebraska College of Arts and Sciences. "There are no officers and no dues, no agenda and no official program. We simply meet every year and talk over the problems we have in common."

Chances For Keeping Peace In Laos 'Slim'

Lao threatened to launch another drive similar to the one a year ago that forced the United States to rush troops to nearby Thailand.

Souvanna returned discouraged from truce talks Saturday night with his half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong, head of the Pathet Lao. Not only did the Pathet Lao hand him a stiff set of demands, it shot up two International Control Commission (ICC) helicopters in the Plaine des Jarres area, scene of the negotiations.

"I have no confidence in anybody, including Pathet Lao," Souvanna said in response to questions submitted by the Associated Press. "Promises given me have too frequently not been honored."

Souvanna said chances of real peace "are very slim" and everything will depend on the next meeting" with the Pathet Lao at its headquarters at Khang Khay, in the Plaine des Jarres area 120 miles north of Vientiane.

"When this meeting will be held," he added, "I don't know."

The peace talks began April 14 to halt fighting between neutralist forces loyal to the premier and the Pathet Lao guerrillas.

Souvanna said he is now studying the proposals made by the Pathet Lao in last week's meetings at Khang Khay.

These demand formation of mixed police in Vientiane, where Deputy Premier Phouma Nosavan's rightist forces are in control, return of the veto to each party in the neutralist-rightist-Pathet Lao coalition regime, withdrawal of ICC teams from the Plaine des Jarres, and removal of all rightist forces from Pathet Lao areas.

Red Guerrillas Kill U.S. Officer

Saigon, Viet Nam (UPI) — Communist guerrillas seized an American Army lieutenant in rebel-infested back country near Saigon Monday and executed him and two South Vietnamese companions, a military spokesman reported. He was the 73rd American killed in the war here since 1961.

Waiting in ambush along notorious Route 13, the Communists blew the American's jeep off the road with a grenade, then executed the trio while they apparently still bled from wounds, the spokesman said.

Three other Americans have been killed on Route 13 while carrying out their tasks of advising South Vietnamese forces in the bloody war against the Communists.

The American lieutenant was headed for Ben Duong, center of a program called Operation Sunrise. Under the program, the government is building strategic hamlets throughout the country in an effort to slow Communist guerrilla activity.

Four other Americans were wounded in weekend fighting and two more were injured in accidents.

Catholics Halt Protest

Jefferson City, Mo. (UPI) —

A quiet and orderly protest by Catholic parents against the state's refusal to provide their children with transportation to parochial schools was called off Monday night.

Earlier in the day Catholic students had boarded public school buses and enrolled in public schools. The sudden influx of Catholic students crowded some classrooms to the point where they had to dismiss schools because of the Catholic students.

Later Monday, a 3-man committee heading the protest advised Catholic parents that their objective had been obtained and told them to send their children back to the parochial schools.

Sioux Falls Interests Buy National Business Institute

Nettleton Colleges has acquired a second Lincoln business school, the National Business Institute at 411 So. 13th.

Ray Hansen, president of NBI, said control of the school which he founded in 1937 will be taken over by the Nettleton interests June 1.

The Lincoln School of Commerce was acquired by the same interests, it was announced earlier.

C. D. Rohlfss, president of Nettleton Commercial College at Sioux Falls, S.D., said both Lincoln schools will remain in operation and that all staff members at both will be retained, with the exception of the presidents.

Hansen will retire from the independent business school field, and W. A. Robbins, Lincoln School of Commerce president, will become president emeritus.

Rohlfss said new administrators of the two schools will be announced in the near future.

No expansion of the business schools is planned, Rohlfss said. Present IBM training at NBI will be discontinued except for key punch instruction, he said, because of duplication of the courses with those offered at another Nettleton institution, Automation Institute of Omaha.

Peak winter enrollment at NBI is 170, and about 260 at the Lincoln School of Commerce. In addition, each school has about 60 students enrolled in night courses.

"KEEP AN ENGINEER ON THE COUNCIL"

Lower Income Tax Rates Are Likely--Walker

Omaha (AP)—The executive vice president of the American Bankers Association said Monday Congress "probably will reduce personal and corporate income tax rates significantly this year."

He added that the bankers association is urging that Congress also cut back next year's federal spending to this year's level.

He said the bankers also hope that serious consideration will be given to reducing the corporate tax rate over the next 4 years to at least 42% — a full 10% below its present level. He termed this a step which "experience suggests will pay for itself many times over in more jobs, more income, more government revenue, and a faster rate of economic growth."

The bankers' official, Dr. Charles E. Walker, made these observations in an address at the annual convention of the Nebraska Bankers Association.

Dr. Walker said the recent upsurge in capital spending by business provides convincing evidence that a substantial cut in the corporate tax would be effective.

Famed Musician Ted Weems Dies

Tulsa, Okla. (UPI)—Band-leader Ted Weems, who rose to fame in the 1930's and 40's with such song hits as "Heartaches," died Monday night in a Tulsa Hospital.

The 62-year-old musician had been hospitalized for 7 weeks with emphysema, a disease which destroys lung tissue.

Environmental Health Study To Be Mulled

A proposal for a Lincoln environmental health study will be considered by the Citizens Advisory Health Council May 15, according to chairman Herbert C. Henderson.

The council will hear a report by Dr. E. D. Lyman, director of the Omaha-Douglas County Health Department, on a study made there.

If the council decides to do the study, a committee will be organized to decide on the area to be covered, who is to do the field work, appoint sub-committees and set dates for the survey, Henderson said.

Such a study usually covers a community's health-agency operations, physical planning and zoning operations, air-pollution control, housing program, radiological health, garbage collection and disposal, sanitation, sewers and water supply.

ending last Dec. 31, Lyman M. Stuckey of Lexington, president of the Nebraska Bankers Association, reported to convention delegates.

Stuckey said deposits had climbed $157,491,601 to $1,942,735,955 by last Dec. 31. The increase in the last 10 years was $415,333,026, he said.

Stuckey reported that all types of loans also have shown an increase, indicating that Nebraska bankers are meeting the needs of their communities.

NU Elects 28 Student Councilmen

University of Nebraska students elected 28 Student Council representatives Monday and approved 6 amendments to its constitution.

Other amendments clarified the terms and qualifications of organizational representatives, specified a secret ballot in council elections and provided for the replacement of a representative in case of ineligibility.

The successful candidates will take office next September. Their names, with hometowns as given by the NU Builders Student Directory, are:

Late surface map showed a high cell over southern Iowa through northern Illinois becoming centered over the Illinois-Iowa border around noon Tuesday with a ridge of high pressure from the center to the east.

A weak warm front extended from the northeast Panhandle to northeast Iowa, then southeastward into southeast Iowa. It is this mechanism that should show a little rise in temperatures in these specified areas.

Bartunek Files For Governor

Lincolnite Leo Bartunek who just a few weeks ago announced he would never run for public office again has paid a $10 filing fee for office of governor.

Bartunek, who ran third in the primary race for Lincoln mayor, filed for the May, 1964, state primary on the Republican ticket.

Officials with whom he registered said Bartunek favored filing at this early date because of a pending registration fee bill now before the Legislature.

The measure would make filing fees one per cent of the salary of that office. Since there is a proposal to increase the governor's salary to $18,000, it is possible that a contestant for that office would have to pay $180 filing fee.

It is not presently known whether the registration bill would cover early registrants.

May Never Be Success

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

United States foreign policy may never be successful in terms of the attitude of all our North Atlantic Treaty Organization friends and in the way it might be seen by U.S. travelers abroad. This is the way it was seen by Lincoln Atty. Duane Ackie, who was a delegate to the Youth Conference of NATO in Europe. The young Lincoln attorney found this nation's foreign policy subject to a lot of questions and reservations from other delegates.

"It was clearly obvious," said Ackie, "that the foreign policy of the United States had not been successful as to dealings with our Atlantic allies. The French delegates had a fear that should their country be invaded, the United States might not use nuclear deterrent to assist in repelling the invasion. Portugal also felt that when Nehru attacked its territory in India, he was in effect attacking Portugal and as a NATO nation, the U.S. should have come to the assistance of Portugal." Questions were also raised as to lack of U.S. air support in the Bay of Pigs invasion and U.S. Cuban policy since that time.

U.S. policy might never be successful in these terms because it comes too close to meaning full approval on the part of all our NATO allies. In the same way, we might well say that French foreign policy is a failure when the real fact is that we simply disagree with it. Only time will tell whether it is a failure.

President Kennedy has pointed out in his own words that this nation should not expect to win any popularity contests on the international scene. This is fairly simple to understand since those in position of greatest responsibility seldom are very popular. If this nation is to exercise Western leadership, it will make some unpopular moves, nor should it expect always to be 100 per cent correct.

Even more important than this, it seems, is that we not enter judgment too quickly in the matter of competition between the free Western world and the totalitarian Eastern world of communism. Cuba, for instance, is a prime subject of debate these days but are all things settled in that small island or is it the jury, so to speak, still out? It has been noted by one commentator that Castro was about the only thing Premier Khrushchev could produce for Russia's May Day activities by way of a gain for communism. This is a pretty slim gain and it emphasizes the problems that are still faced by the Kremlin and by communism throughout the world.

National Fossil Monument

Legislation will be introduced in Congress this week by Sen. Roman Hruska for creation of a $1,750,000 Agate Fossil Beds National Monument. The proposed attraction would be located in the rolling grasslands country of the Nebraska Panhandle.

The attraction would include a 3,100-acre tract in the Niobrara River Valley and a museum that would tell the visitor a fossil story of this fabulous region. People are not inclined to appreciate what they have in many cases and this is probably the fact with the entire region of Nebraska.

This development would fit very nicely into the continuing growth of the Panhandle as a major tourist attraction. It would recall this history of the area from millions of years ago through the display of artifacts and skeletal structures taken right from the area under consideration today.

Banker-Leader

The town of Wausa, a community of something less than 1,000, thriving very well in its fertile agricultural surroundings 35 miles north of Norfolk, has an enlightened banker-spokesman in Norbert T. Tiemann.

Wausa, like every other agricultural community has the problem of declining population and its effect on a town's economy. But unlike many it has a financial leader who knows how to talk back to decline and to nullify it by progressive change.

Mr. Tiemann has wrought a great improvement simply by re-examining agricultural opportunity and relating that to the conviction that a dependable borrower can operate with equal dependability if his field is enlarged through greater access to credit. License Scandal Hurts Rockefeller

WASHINGTON — Ever since the days of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., his family have been temperate, and most of them teetotalers.

When his grandson, Nelson, was coordinator of Latin American cultural affairs under Roosevelt, he finally broke with family tradition to the point of serving drinks at a Tarrytown reception for Latin-American diplomats. Nelson, himself, however, remained most abstemious.

It's the irony of fate, therefore, that the biggest scandals that have rocked New York perhaps since the days of Jimmie Walker, have been the liquor license blowup involving Rockefeller appointees.

The governor himself is not involved, and he was flabbergasted when he learned that his close friend and adviser, Judson Morhouse, had received a fee of $10,000 for getting a liquor license for the Playboy nightclub, which features scantily clad women called "Bunnies."

"Why didn't he ask me if he needed $18,000?" exclaimed the surprised and hurt governor. "I could have let him have $18,000 or even $180,000 rather than this."

Gov. Rockefeller at that time did not know that all his friend got was $9,000, because he had to split his fee with a referral attorney in Chicago.

Morhouse, an able and likeable counselor, has now resigned as adviser to the governor and as chairman of

Kuchel Lashes Out Against Hate Groups

WASHINGTON — The dictionary defines paranoia as: a chronic mental disorder characterized by systematized delusions of persecution and of one's own greatness, sometimes with hallucinations.

The word paranoid, meaning one suffering from paranoia, occurred several times in the speech that Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R., Calif.) made on the Senate floor this past week. He brought into the open a phenomenon that has caused a great deal of backstage talk on Capitol Hill.

This is the increasing volume of mail from citizens whose accusations are so far out that they seem to have taken leave of their senses.

Of the 60,000 letters a month that come to him, Kuchel said 10 percent are in this far-out category. They accuse him of being pro-communist and a traitor and when he replies, presenting the facts of a given situation, they write again saying he is either a dupe or a deliberate agent practicing deceit.

California has always had more than its share of the lunatic fringe. In the great depression of the '30s they pursued a variety of pied piper promises: $30 every Thursday and other weird panaceas. Therefore, the senator's alarm might be discounted.

Arguments to the contrary, such as the desirability to invest the sale funds for good return, the desirability to increase tax income through private ownership of the land, and criticism of present administration and distribution of the land income are not convincing enough. The arguments are mostly speculative and criticism of administration, if well founded, is more a matter of reform than an occasion to sell out.

Nebraska is a landed state, its people have a high regard for ownership in fee simple, and since there are far more willing keepers than willing buyers all sales proposals face hard sledding.

Sometimes it's such a treat to tilt the rocking chair back, prop the feet on a footstool and just sit a spell. Tonight I did just that. I sat in front of the picture window where I always have a good view of the front yard and orchard. I sat and sat. Although the cloudy gray sky overhead looked more like an early winter sky than a light airy spring sky, it made little difference. I still sat. The wind blew from the north while the trees bowed low. It even sounded like the wind of a winter day. It was colder outside, too . . . the kind of a night when the garden didn't so much as beckon. Amid all the bleakness and chill, I heard a brown thrush call from the orchard. I had no more illusions. If the saucy little bird that sang from the cherry tree had faith that it was spring, surely I could muster a similar amount of faith.

While I was sitting, quietly thinking of many things, my thoughts came to rest upon an old adobe home we saw in the desert southwest. I have often wondered if it was crumbled into the dust or if travelers still pass by that way and peer in the windows such as we did before taking its picture.

The golden shafts of afternoon sun slanted through the weather-creviced roof and shrinking walls. Dust covered the floor while in the dark arcades the spiders crawled into protective dens. Silver moths from shadowed corners flew undisturbed to find another place to fold their drowsy wings.

One spectral windowpane renewed its vacant stare across the lonely desert as if awaiting someone. I looked across the vast desolation, too, but the footprints length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. The frequent use of the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be written in ink. Letters will be held under a new name or initials. However, letters will be retained under a new name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Council Actions

Lincoln, Neb.

Just what have our illustrious council members done for us? First they thought that we should have urban renewal. Fortunately we were able to vote against it. Then there was the Sunday closing ordinance which was adopted by the council. But the people didn't like this, either, so it was amended.

Areas were annexed for an individual's gain in spite of protests and wishes of the people of these areas. The colored people of Lincoln wanted to relocate their only tavern to their immediate area, only to be rejected. Now they have no tavern, thanks to the council.

Numerous times they have publicly approved of certain issues only to reverse their decision because a group of do-gooders in Lincoln were against it. Apparently they didn't know what they were doing to start with. Side-walk permits were allowed, depending upon who or how influential an individual was. A common layman or a small business man couldn't get one. They were going to try to regulate garbage haulers' fees because one person objected to the increase the haulers were going to charge.

And the latest boner they pulled was removing the park alongside the City Hall to provide parking for themselves. If this is the type of council we have presently, then I say we need a change.

Fluoridation

Lincoln, Neb.

Bernard Moran, D. D. S., may have done a public service by his approval of Dean Petersen's answer on the matter of fluoridation of public water. We can still write in a name on the ballot.

I doubt if a person could accidentally overlook the fact that a mass dosage, even of a less poisonous nature, is frowned upon by good physicians who do not prescribe the same for each individual's needs.

I do not take a drug but if I should need one, I would not have a dentist prescribe it. They are not aware of the long-range ill effects from an accumulative drug.

A Comparison

Lincoln, Neb.

Let us make a comparison of the two candidates for mayor, from a citizen's standpoint. Mr. Herrington is gracious, a fine speaker and a nice personality. It is my understanding that he has no business experience and has never been forced to make his own living in a competitive market.

Your Five Cents Worth

It is requested that letters be edited out of letters. The frequent use of the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be written in ink. Letters will be retained under a new name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Mr. Petersen is undoubtedly less polished and not as experienced a public speaker.

On the other hand, he is a successful business man in his own right and from years of experience understands management. He has always contributed to government, with many years in scouting and other public work. He does not seek the mayor's job as a salaried job to maintain his status quo. His decisions should be free of pressure and fair to all concerned. I feel that he will fairly represent the people of Lincoln.

I urge everyone to vote, by all means, on Tuesday and hope for a better Lincoln as we grow.

The Unicameral

Blair, Neb.

It has been a good many years since I bowed to the more mature judgments and persuasions of the late great Senator George Norris and that of the late Jim Lawrence, editor of The Lincoln Star, and voted for the Nebraska Unicameral. I am not saying flatly even yet that I was entirely wrong but there has been and still is, in my judgment, urgent need for reform and revision.

Not one state in all these years has voted to follow our lead in the establishment of the one-house legislature. This is not to say that this makes us wrong in having done so, but conversely, it certainly doesn't prove that we are right. It would be quite satisfying to our ego, I am sure, if a majority of states and people would follow.

If the Chamber of Commerce would recover from its political fever, maybe Governor Morrison would consent to sing "You Ought To Be In Pictures" to Poor Richard. Maybe Dick would be more of a "marvel" and produce a film to show us how to pay for 1963 Nebraska progress with a 1953 budget!

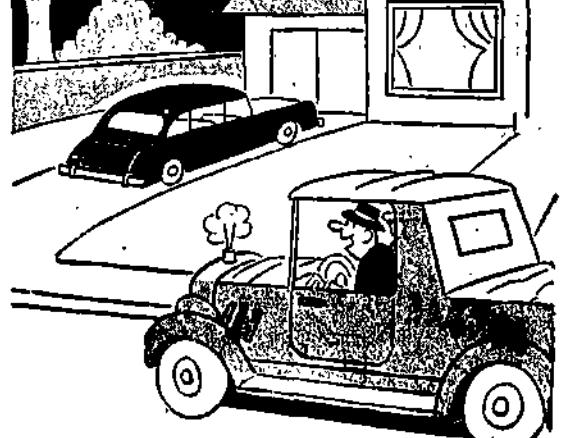

We would all pay the price of a ticket to see that premiere.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

"That's my son's car. We were hoping he'd get to come home from college this week end."

May Never Be Success

By WILLIAM

United States foreign policy may never be successful in terms of the attitude of all our North Atlantic Treaty Organization friends and in the way it might be seen by U.S. travelers abroad. This is the way it was seen by Lincoln Atty. Duane Acklie who was a delegate to the Youth Conference of NATO in Europe. The young Lincoln attorney found this nation's foreign policy subject to a lot of questions and reservations from other delegates.

"It was clearly obvious," said Acklie, "that the foreign policy of the United States had not been successful as to dealings with our Atlantic allies. The French delegates had a fear that should their country be invaded, the United States might not use nuclear deterrent to assist in repelling the invasion. Portugal also felt that when Nehru attacked its territory in India, he was in effect attacking Portugal and as a NATO nation, the U.S. should have come to the assistance of Portugal." Questions were also raised as to lack of U.S. air support in the Bay of Pigs invasion and U.S. Cuban policy since that time.

U.S. policy might never be successful in these terms because it comes too close to meaning full approval on the part of all our NATO allies. In the same way, we might well say that French foreign policy is a failure when the real fact is that we simply disagree with it. Only time will tell whether it is a failure.

President Kennedy has pointed out in his own words that this nation should not expect to win any popularity contests on the international scene. This is fairly simple to understand since those in position of greatest responsibility seldom are very popular. If this nation is to exercise Western leadership, it will make some unpopular moves, nor should it expect always to be 100 per cent correct.

Even more important than this, it seems, is that we not enter judgment too quickly in the matter of competition between the free Western world and the totalitarian Eastern world of communism. Cuba, for instance, is a prime subject of debate these days but are all things settled in that small island or is the jury, so to speak, still out? It has been noted by one commentator that Castro was about the only thing Premier Khrushchev could produce for Russia's May Day activities by way of a gain for communism. This is a pretty slim gain and it emphasizes the problems that are still faced by the Kremlin and by communism throughout the world.

National Fossil Monument

Legislation will be introduced in Congress this week by Sen. Roman Hruska for creation of a $1,750,000 Agate Fossil Beds National Monument. The proposed attraction would be located in the rolling grasslands country of the Nebraska Panhandle.

The attraction would include a 3,100-acre tract in the Niobrara River Valley and a museum that would tell the visitor a fossil story of this fabulous region. People are not inclined to appreciate what they have in many cases and this is probably the fact with the entire region of Nebraska.

This development would fit very nicely into the continuing growth of the Panhandle as a major tourist attraction. It would recall this history of the area from millions of years ago through the display of artifacts and skeletal structures taken right from the area under consideration today.

Most Nebraskans probably still do not

Horatio Alger Philosophy Sparked Will To Succeed

By ROBERT PETERSON

The other day I stopped at a library and asked if books by Horatio Alger are still popular. The librarian said there were only a few badly worn Algers left on the shelves and that "youngsters today consider them old-fashioned."

It's a pity if they're rated as dated, for thousands of business leaders will admit their will to succeed was sparked by the Alger philosophy that says hard work and integrity eventually lead to wealth and honor.

Alger was born in Revere,

Mass., in 1834. He was trained as a minister, but when he was approaching 40 chose to devote himself to writing. His first book was "Ragged Dick" and it was followed by 124 additional tomes, each with a ragged hero who rose to riches. Some 20 million copies of his books were printed, but Alger gave away most of his income and died poor in 1899.

The only time we hear of him now is when the annual Horatio Alger awards are presented. Since 1947, 10 awards have been granted annually under sponsorship of the American Schools and Colleges Association. Recipients have included many of our great names, including Dwight D. Eisenhower, Eddie Rickenbacker and Herbert Hoover.

Among those receiving the award this month is Albert Dorne, who had to drop out of school at 13 to support his mother, two sisters, and small brother by bossing a string of newsstands. But Al had read the Alger books and knew that if he was honest and worked hard he could achieve whatever he wanted. Well, he wanted to achieve a name in art. And that's what he did.

By the time he was 20 he was earning good money as a commercial artist, and by the time he was 40 he was making more money in the field than anyone else.

When he was well into middle age he turned his back on the big money he was earning to organize a new method of teaching art by mail. Nobody thought it could be done. But he dreamed of bringing instruction to those who would otherwise have no access to qualified art training. He worked out a home study program prepared and directed by America's top artists. And today Dorne's dream is a galloping reality and he heads that famous artists school which advertises so extensively and which has helped so many develop artistic talents.

Because the Alger idealism spurred so many to rise by their bootstraps, it would seem that this wholesome doctrine should be extolled, publicized, and promoted among youths today. A revival of Alger's precepts might help check the deterioration of incentive among modern youngsters whose values have been undermined by television giveaways and welfare philosophies.

The Alger books have been out of print for decades, and publication rights are now in the public domain. Wouldn't it be great if some retired businessman with means were to create a new career for himself by reissuing these books? He might need to update the text, modernize the settings, and edit some of the cliches. But no change would be required in Alger's underlying philosophy—it's pure Americana and must be preserved.

Bill Controlling Ophthalmic Ads Is Introduced

Nebraska's Legislature Monday permitted the introduction of a bill to place curbs on the advertising of eyeglasses.

Sponsored by the Public Health Committee, the measure would make it unlawful to advertise any untruthful, impossible, improbable or misleading statement in connection with the sale of ophthalmic materials or as to the price of such ophthalmic materials.

Such materials are identified as eye glasses, spectacles, lenses, contact lenses, frames or mountings.

The penalty for violation would be a fine of $100 to $500.

Sen. George H. Fleming of Sidney, speaking for the Public Health Committee, said the measure was advocated by optometrists who already are limited in their price advertising.

Stromer To Ask Higher Education Board Research

A Legislative Council study of the possibilities of Central Board of Higher Education to govern the University of Nebraska and the 4 state colleges will be proposed in the Legislature.

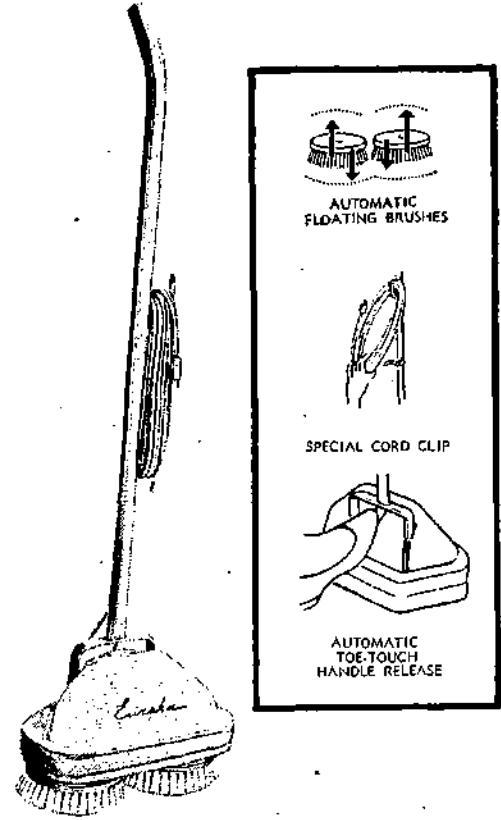

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer of Lincoln, while obtaining permission to withdraw his LB762, reported Monday he will introduce a resolution proposing such a study.

LB762 would have submitted to voters next year a constitutional amendment for the creation of a state board taking over functions now performed by the State Normal Board and the University Regents.

Gov. Frank Morrison, in his inaugural message, advocated exploration of the possibility of a central board of higher education.

Sale Of State School Lands Motion Is Rejected

Nebraska's Legislature, on a 25-15 vote, laid to rest for the current session Monday the biennial question of selling state school lands.

The rejecting vote was applied to O'Neill Sen. Frank Nelson's motion to revive LB624, notwithstanding the action of the Education Committee in killing the bill 5-2.

Senators from Western Nebraska, where most of the 1.6 million acres of state-owned school land are located, termed the lands "a blight on the community," giving rise to stress and dispute.

Sen. Nelson, principal introducer of LB624, led the fight for revival.

"Big Cow"

He compared school lands to a huge cow with its milking end in Eastern Nebraska and its head in Cherry County. Eastern Nebraska gets the milk and Western Nebraska provides the feed, he suggested.

"If Douglas County had 6 or 7 sections of school lands, I know how the vote would go," he said.

But Sen. George Syas of Omaha said that "just because a rural Legislature once made the mistake of selling off some eastern school lands is no reason for disposing of the remainder."

He said the state now has a good balance between bonds and lands in holdings handled by the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds, noted that land is going to become more valuable and represents an insurance against inflation hitting the "inheritance of the school children."

Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte said state ownership of 1.6 million acres of land "is rank socialism."

If it's right for the state to own school land, it should be right for the state "to own all the farms of the state," he said.

Craft said if the state were to take the $25 million it now holds in school securities and uses it to buy land in Douglas and Lancaster counties, "it wouldn't take long to sell all the school lands."

Sen. George Syas of Alliance suggested taking the land and holding it in trust, to be derived from selling school lands and use it to buy land in Eastern Nebraska if there has to be insistence on holding land for school purposes. He said 9% of his area, being school land, pays no state or county taxes.

Senators voting to refile LB624: Adelson, Bohm, Bower, Burton, Carpenter, Craft, Erlewine, Flemish, Fester, Gerdes, Kremel, McElroy, Nelson, Pohl, Syas, Thompson, Winkler. Senators voting against refile LB624: Alford, Dredenlaugh, Clausen, Dawson, Foster, Gerhart, Haselroock, Klar, Kuyk, Mahoney, Marvel, Moulton, O'Neil, Pohl, Rasmussen, Rees, Rulimke, Tassilo, Shadai, Stader, Stromer, Stryker, Syas, Warner, Xer, voting: Danner, Lysander, Thompson.

Unclaimed Property Bill Is Killed By State Legislature

The Legislature Monday killed a so-called unclaimed property bill on a 30-10 vote.

The measure, LB8, also referred to as the "escheat bill," would have provided that the state take possession of unclaimed property—such as deposits—held by financial and other institutions and businesses.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, the bill's introducer, estimated that about $2 million would come into the state's possession during the first biennium of the bill's operation.

But discussion developed the fact that under the constitution, the unclaimed property must be turned over to the Permanent School Fund rather than the state's General Fund. Only the interest on the value of such unclaimed property could be spent and Carpenter acknowledged that on $2 million, this interest would amount only to some $60,000.

Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte, who authored the bill, suggested that the cost of collection and litigation could be more than revenue involved.

Similar legislation was killed at the 1961 session.

Legislators Pass Measure Ratifying Niobrara Compact

The Nebraska Legislature Monday passed and sent to Gov. Frank Morrison for approval a bill ratifying the Upper Niobrara River Compact entered into Oct. 26, 1962 between the States of Nebraska and Wyoming.

A 42-0 vote okayed the measure, LB538, introduced by Sen. George Gerdes of Alliance. The bill carries the emergency clause making it effective on the governor's signature.

The Niobrara River Compact entered into at a Cheyenne, Wyo., meeting provides an agreement on the division of surface waters of the upper Niobrara River linking the two states, and carries provisions for ground water investigations and eventual apportionment of ground water if desirable.

State Water Resources Director Dan Jones Jr. represented Nebraska in the compact negotiations.

The compact must be approved by Legislatures of both states and by the United States Congress before it becomes effective.

LB538 was one of 5 passed on final reading Monday. The list:

Railway Rate Bill Revival Requested

Sen. T. C. Reeves of Central City moved in the Legislature Monday to revive LB773, a committee-killed bill which would revise rate making and rate publishing procedures of the State Railway Commission.

Debate on the revival motion was deferred until Thursday.

LB211 (Wyile, Clowes) — Selling out property to be followed when a taxpayer fails to file his personal property tax return (40-0).

LB599 (Stromer) — Provides procedure for transfer of a mechanic's lien from the real property on which it is recorded to some other property (39-0).

LB554 (Gerdes) — Establishes the Upper Niobrara River Compact entered into Oct. 26, 1962 between Nebraska and Wyoming (42-0).

LB538 (Payne) — Revises salary ceilings on deputy state auditor, deputy secretary of state and deputy state treasurer (28-11).

LB594 (Bolton, Shadai) — Provides for annual open-cast training courses to be given in Lincoln for county assessors and county clerks who are ex-officio county assessors (41-0).

The social life of Greece centers around the taverna. (There is a rather elegant Hilton taverna built into the new Athens Hilton. That Conrad!)

"If you go to a taverna," said the Greek newspaperman, "you must choose one that has a fat cat. If a taverna does not have good food, the cat is thin. If it has no cat at all, don't even stop."

He said the cats of Athens have become gourmets over the centuries.

He said some of the most popular tavernas are on rooftops.

Top-Notch School Does More Than Educating

... NU VICE CHANCELLOR TELLS LEADERS

By B. R. ROTHENBERGER
Star Staff Writer
More than 50 Lincoln civic leaders turned student for the day. They were addressed by Roy G. Holly, vice chancellor of the University of Nebraska.

He said the state is becoming more and more aware that a first-rate university's function extends beyond providing excellent undergraduate education.

A growing, diversifying state must have the benefit of counsel and research such as can be provided only by a strong faculty supplied with adequate facilities, the NU graduate dean explained.

Three Musts

Holly said a school's usefulness in community progress has 3 requirements.

—State willingness to prepare its school for the service.

—Willingness of the school to compete for more national grants and assignments, including a faculty sufficient to handle the load.

—Readiness of business and industry to make full use of the spinoff of counseling and applied service through off-time employment of faculty members.

Holly's audience—members of the Lincoln Area Industrial Committee and the Chamber of Commerce business expansion committee—listened thoughtfully when advised that NU's $4.6 million for research was comparable to that of the University of Kansas.

But, the dean said, that is far less than the amounts enjoyed by Colorado and Iowa state universities.

He described Nebraska's limited effort as resulting from space limitation, lack of needed facilities and a research staff already heavily occupied.

Computer Lack

Lack of an adequate computer system, a condition now being corrected, has resulted in the loss of several outstanding scientists, Holly noted. They had to go where facilities were adequate for their complex problem-solving.

"Good facilities are alluring to scholars," Holly explained. He added that they like specialized outside employment which allows a university to compete for such talent at relatively modest salaries.

Agricultural research, he said, has attained the most desirable level here. It commutes closely with farming and has been able to return millions in practical benefits.

Holly explained that research grants are obtained in two ways: project research in which individual faculty members apply to foundations and research agencies for grants, and institutional research in which the university seeks more broad grants to strengthen needed fields of teaching and study.

More Pressure?

Asked whether more pressure by the Nebraska congressional delegation would help substantially, Holly cautioned that grants for projects the university is not equipped for would not be beneficial.

Asked if stress on research tends to dilute teaching responsibilities, Holly asserted.

"The university is fully aware that the best minds of tomorrow are now in school. It is firm in its determination not only to transmit known knowledge, but also to lead those minds to the very frontier of thought. But it is not unwilling to fulfill its responsibilities for national and community service research."

all statistician had mixed up two sets of non-comparable data," and termed the story an "unfortunate" one.

By using data supplied by the AAUP Hardin said Nebraska ranks 4th in full professor salary averages, 5th in associates, 6th in assistants, and 4th in instructors.

On a cash basis, he continued, the comparisons show Nebraska is still 4th for full professors, 4th for associates, 6th for assistants, and 5th for instructors.

Ben-Gurion: No Doubt Israel Attack Planned

Jerusalem, Israel (UPI) — Premier David Ben-Gurion told the Knesset (parliament) Monday that the Arab nations "without a shadow of a doubt" are considering an attack on Israel.

He said the Israeli armed forces have the power to repulse any attack or aggression on the part of the Arabs despite the fact that Arabs with Soviet military aid are more powerful than before.

Ben-Gurion took sharp exception to a statement in the British Parliament last week by Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath that the United States and Britain "haven't any reason to believe the Arab states are contemplating an attack on Israel."

He said it was inconceivable that the British official had not read the terms of the agreement setting up the new United Arab Republic of do so Monday.

Egypt, Iraq and Syria pledged to "liberate Palestine."

"I cannot imagine the United States government—certainly not the President of the United States—will identify themselves with the Lord Privy Seal's reply," Ben-Gurion said.

Ben-Gurion said there were only two ways war could be prevented.

1 Constantly strengthening Israel's military deterrent power

2 Securing moral and political support for those "world forces which are concerned—as we are—for maintaining the peace in this area."

Previously he had been expected to appeal directly to the Soviet Union and the United States to guarantee Israel's border. But he did not do so Monday.

Holly explained that research grants are obtained in two ways: project research in which individual faculty members apply to foundations and research agencies for grants, and institutional research in which the university seeks more broad grants to strengthen needed fields of teaching and study.

More Pressure?

Asked whether more pressure by the Nebraska congressional delegation would help substantially, Holly cautioned that grants for projects the university is not equipped for would not be beneficial.

Asked if stress on research tends to dilute teaching responsibilities Holly asserted, "The university is fully aware that the best minds of tomorrow are now in school.

It is firm in its determination not only to transmit known knowledge, but also to lead those minds to the very frontier of thought. But it is not unwilling to fulfill its responsibilities for national and community-serving research."

old statistician had mixed up two sets of non-comparable data," and termed the story an "unfortunate" one.

By using data supplied by the AAUP, Hardin said Nebraska ranks 4th in full professor salary averages, 5th on associates, 6th on assistants, and 4 on instructors.

On a cash basis, he continued, the comparisons show Nebraska is still 4th for full professors, 4th for associates, 6th on assistants, and 5th for instructors.

The University museum asked for expansion funds of $5,000 a biennium to allow operation of the museum at Ft. Robinson from 4½ to 5 months a year. It is now open only 2½ months a year.

Expansion Sought

KUON-TV requested $28,400 in expansion funds to allow the hiring of two additional staff members—one of which would permit the expansion of closed circuit television instruction on the NU campus itself to meet needs resulting from increased enrollment.

Richard Farley, assistant director of the University libraries, explained that department's request for some $100,000 in expansion funds for the next biennium was necessary to hire 13 new people to "catch up" in its backlog of work.

A total of $100,000 also has been requested to add to the collections of the libraries. This would be in addition to the $175,000 budgeted each year for that purpose.

At the close of the request explanations, Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln asked NU officials about a story in the Sunday Omaha World Herald which stated that the average pay of NU faculty members was second highest among the Big Eight schools.

According to that story, the figures were obtained from the American Association of University Professors.

Hardin Disturbed

Chancellor Clifford Hardin said he was "disturbed" by the story because it did not represent a true picture of Nebraska, did not check with NU's data, nor with material supplied the committee.

Legislative fiscal analyst John Quigley said he has seen the story and "noticed immediately the World Her-

DAVID BEN-GURION

Ben-Gurion: No Doubt Israel Attack Planned

Jerusalem, Israel (UPI)—Premier David Ben-Gurion told the Knesset (parliament) Monday that the Arab nations "without a shadow of a doubt" are considering an attack on Israel.

He said the Israeli armed forces have the power to repulse any attack or aggression on the part of the Arabs despite the fact that Arabs with Soviet military aid are more powerful than before.

Ben-Gurion took sharp exception to a statement in the British Parliament last week by Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath that the United States and Britain "haven't any reason to believe the Arab states are contemplating an attack on Israel."

He said it was inconceivable that the British official had not read the terms of the United Arab Republic of

Egypt, Iraq and Syria pledged to "liberate Palestine."

"I cannot imagine the United States government—certainly not the President of the United States—will identify themselves with the Lord Privy Seal's reply," Ben-Gurion said.

Ben-Gurion said there were only two ways war could be prevented.

1. Constantly strengthening Israel's military deterrent power.
2. Securing moral and political support for those "world forces which are concerned—as we are—for maintaining the peace in this area."

Previously he had been expected to appeal directly to the Soviet Union and the United States to guarantee Israel's border. But he did not do so Monday.

Uni Place Skagway Planned

. . . SUPERMARKET'S COST PLACED AT $1.5 MILLION

Skagway Inc. of Grand Island is planning a $1.5 million department store and supermarket near 48th and Walker. The City Council was advised Monday.

The proposed one-story building with 130,000 square feet of floor space and off-street parking would be located on a proposed 5-block shopping center west of the University Place business district.

Herbert Heumann, president of A & H Realty, asked the city to allocate $20,000 toward an estimated $42,000 worth of storm sewer improvements needed for the development.

Ready To Start'

George W. Martin, president of Skagway, said the firm "is ready to start building" when the storm sewer and other lease details are worked out.

"It's too late to open this fall, but we will build to open next spring," he said.

Heumann said the cost of vacating streets, moving utilities, providing sanitary and storm sewers is estimated to total $89,710 as compared with an original estimate of $46,000.

Skagway presently operates discount stores at Grand Island and Omaha.

Martin said the store would employ 300 persons and have an inventory of $1.5 million and fixtures totalling $500,000 in addition to the estimated $1.5 construction cost. The building would be 200 by 500 feet.

Harley Bair, a Northeast Lincoln industrialist, said the Skagway development "will be a definite asset to University Place" and "will give the independent merchant opportunity to test his ability to sell."

The council deferred action on the requested $20,000 city allocation toward storm sewer costs.

Diagonal Cutover

Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger suggested the proposed alignment of the Leighton Ave. cutover from the Northeast Diagonal should be rechecked because of proposed adjustment of the street's curvature near the shopping center.

He said the street's design is a 35-mile-per-hour arterial should be preserved.

Heumann indicated that A & H Realty had other prospects for the proposed shopping center, but Skagway was the only prospect showing continued interest.

Annexing Antelope Area Excepts Disputed Tracts

The City Council Monday approved the annexation of the Antelope Creek Dam area to Lincoln, but excluded two controversial areas.

Excluded was a large area between 56th and 70th, South and Normal Blvd. extended and a smaller one south of Pioneers Blvd. from 70th to 56th.

Residents of these two areas had strongly protested the proposed annexation at public hearing last week.

Owning residential acreages, some 18 owners expressed fear of special assessment for city utilities and encroachment by the city "on their country-squire type of living."

Delay Suggested
They suggested the area would be ultimately annexed, but should be delayed until there's more urban development in the area.

In other action, the council unanimously recommended approval of an off-and-on-sale beer license at 2011 O for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Passieux.

The license is being relinquished by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Foltz. The State Liquor Control Commission must give final approval to the license transfer application.

Council Reconsiders Controversial Zoning

The City Council Monday voted to reconsider A-2 residential zoning for the proposed Constable's Antelope Parkland Addition near 56th and Van Dorn, but took no final action.

'Red Men Might Get Cheated Out Of Their Land In Alaska'

New York (UPI) — The fear that the red man may be cheated of his lands in Alaska, America's last frontier, was expressed Monday night by Oliver La Farge, Pulitzer prize-winning author and expert on Indian affairs.

La Farge spoke at the annual meeting of the Association of American Indian Affairs, of which he is president.

Other speakers were Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a member of the Senate subcommittee on Indian affairs, and John Wooden Legs, president of the Northern Cheyenne tribe in southeastern Montana and a grandson of Chief Wooden Legs, warrior who was one of the leaders in the battle now famous as "Custer's Last Stand."

Disposing of Land

La Farge charged that the Federal Bureau of Land Management is disposing of Alaska without regard to the needs of the Indian and Eskimo villages which have been established on them for generations.

If, he said, the bureau goes ahead with its present plan to set aside 8-million acres for a "clear-cut" set of instructions to the Bureau of Land Management.

A spokesman for the association said that the federal government had given the new state of Alaska permission to take over 103-million acres to dispose of as it sees fit. The spokesman said that if the new state were to dispose of all its allotted acreage for settlers, mineral developments and other uses, the 40,000 Eskimos and Indians in Alaska, who now support themselves, would be left without a means of subsistence.

Ordered Hearings

La Farge said that when Interior Secretary Stewart Udall heard about the proposal to condemn 9-million acres for a dam, he stopped in and ordered public hearings. La

Farge expressed the hope that with top men in Washington sympathetic to the needs of the Indians, Interior Department would issue a

"clear-cut" set of instructions to the Bureau of Land Management.

McGovern expressed the belief that a "Point IV" program for the American Indian is evolving in Washington.

McGovern recalled that, as a congressman in 1957, he had pushed "Point IV" legislation for the Indians which failed to pass.

But he said there is a new climate in Washington now, and that what amounts to a "Point IV" is coming about piece-meal, without the need for specific legislation.

Indian Leader

Wooden Legs spoke as the leader of an Indian reservation which is making progress through a "boot straps" program of its own. Wooden Legs said that at his suggestion, the Northern Cheyenne had adopted the "Morning Star" as their symbol. And that it now is used to brand their cattle and as a trade-mark on handicraft articles sold to tourists.

The ancient Cheyennes, he said, were "healthy and wise" because they arose in the morning before the sun, and in time to see the morning star. Wooden Legs, a rancher, confessed that he himself does not always see the morning star. He told his audience that he hopes times will change for all his people, who have "forgotten the morning star and are sleeping too late in the morning."

With the help of a federal loan, the Northern Cheyennes are buying up tribal lands which were sold by their individual owners in 1928. They have a community herd of 2,000 yearling steers and hope soon to double its size. They have a large public works project in operation, and they are beginning to find more and more employment for their people in the handicraft shops, he said.

"One of the duties of a national committeeman is to coordinate activities between the state organization and the national committee, and to bring harmony in party activities," Boyle explained.

Rescue Team Finds Body Of Missing B47 Navigator

Idaho Falls, Idaho (UPI) — An Air Force rescue team Monday found the body of a missing navigator in the wreckage of a B47 that crashed Friday night into the snow-blanketed wilderness of Yellowstone National Park.

Found with two other dead crewmen was Capt. Loren R. Matthews, 30, of Bremerton, Wash. His body had not been visible through a window of the plane.

The rescue squad cut into the wreckage Monday afternoon to remove the bodies, the search command center here reported.

There was only one survivor of the crash which occurred when the B47 bomber collided with a KC135 tanker.

Capt. Bruce A. Chapman, 33, of Mountain Home, Idaho, managed to eject from the plunging craft, he was found by rescuers Sunday only 200 yards from the wreckage some 10 miles south of Old Faithful geyser.

Final details in the city of Auburn's $300,000 bond issue to finance a cabinet-making factory for WoodCarv, Inc., were settled Monday.

The revenue bonds are the second issue under the state's Industrial Development Act. Auburn also issued the first bonds, worth $240,000, last September to build a plant for Magnolia Metal Co.

The WoodCarv plant, announced early in March, will employ 35 persons to start with and later expand to about 50, according to Miss Sharon Olson, Auburn Chamber of Commerce manager.

The National Bank of Commerce of Lincoln is bond trustee, and the Robert E. Schweser Co. of Omaha is in charge of sales.

'Red Men Might Get Cheated Out Of Their Land In Alaska'

New York (UPI) — The fear that the red man may be cheated of his lands in Alaska, America's last frontier, was expressed Monday night by Oliver La Farge, Pulitzer prize-winning author and expert on Indian affairs.

La Farge spoke at the annual meeting of the Association of American Indian Affairs, of which he is president.

Other speakers were Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., a member of the Senate subcommittee on Indian affairs, and John Wooden Legs, president of the Northern Cheyenne tribe in southeastern Montana and a grandson of Chief Wooden Legs, a warrior who was one of the leaders in the battle now famous as "Custer's Last Stand."

Disposing of Land

La Farge charged that the Federal Bureau of Land Management is disposing of Alaska land without regard to the needs of the Indian and Eskimo villages which have been established on them for generations.

If he said, the bureau goes ahead with its present plan to set aside 9-million acres for a dam, 9 villages will be wiped out.

A spokesman for the association said that the federal government had given the new state of Alaska permission to take over 103-million acres to dispose of as it sees fit. The spokesman said that if the new state were to dispose of all its allotted acreage for settlers, mineral developments and other uses, the 40,000 Eskimos and Indians in Alaska, who now support themselves, would be left without a means of subsistence.

Ordered Hearings

La Farge said that when Interior Secretary Stewart Udall heard about the proposal to condemn 9-million acres for a dam, he stepped in and ordered public hearings. La

Farge expressed the hope that with top men in Washington sympathetic to the needs of the Indians, Interior Department would issue a "clear-cut" set of instructions to the Bureau of Land Management.

McGovern expressed the belief that a "Point IV" program for the American Indian is evolving in Washington.

McGovern recalled that, as a congressman in 1957, he had pushed "Point IV" legislation for the Indians which failed to pass.

But he said there is a new climate in Washington now, and that what amounts to a "Point IV" is coming about point-meal, without the need for specific legislation.

Indian Leader

Wooden Legs spoke as the leader of an Indian reservation which is making progress through a "boot straps" program of its own. Wooden Legs said that at his suggestion, the Northern Cheyennes had adopted the "Morning Star" as their symbol. And that it now is used to brand their cattle and as a trade-mark on handicraft articles sold to tourists.

The ancient Cheyennes, he said, were "healthy and wise" because they arose in the morning before the sun, and in time to see the morning star. Wooden Legs, a rancher, confessed that he himself does not always see the morning star. He told his audience that he hopes times will change for all his people, who have "forgotten the morning star and are sleeping too late in the morning."

With the help of a federal loan, the Northern Cheyennes are buying up tribal lands which were sold by their individual owners in 1926. They have a community herd of 2,000 yearling steers and hope soon to double its size. They have a large public works project in operation, and they are beginning to find more and more employment for their people in the handicraft shops, he said.

Devaney's NU Job 'Cinch' Compared To Mine—Boyle

Lincoln Star Special

Omaha — Democratic National Committeeman Bernard J. Boyle said Monday he thought Bob Devaney's job to produce a winning football team for Nebraska a year ago would rate as a "cinch" compared with his own task of bringing harmony in the Democratic Party.

He made the statement in reply to a query on his reaction to a meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee Saturday which spelled a apparent victory for the forces led by Gov. Frank Morrison and National Committeewoman Maurine Biegert — long at odds with Boyle and State Chairman Russell Hanson.

"One of the duties of a national committeeman is to coordinate activities between the state organization and the national committee, and to bring harmony in party activities," Boyle explained.

Barbers Select Cox Of Kearney

Kearney (AP) — The Association of Master Barbers and Beauticians of Nebraska Monday elected Martin Cox of Kearney president as the two-day convention wound up here.

Vice presidents named were Pete Allen of Columbus, first; Jerry Rittenburg of Lincoln, second; Cecil Swanson of Bassett, 3rd; Harry McCart of Omaha, 4th, and E. A. Ford of Nebraska City, 5th.

Harold Bishop of Lincoln was named secretary-treasurer and Grant Peacock of O'Neill was named chaplain.

The association selected Beatrice for its 1964 convention.

at the University of Nebraska, he would have a pretty at the University of Nebraska winning team for Nebraska. "After looking at my own situation, I think his position and duties are a cinch."

Boyle also said that it was "rewarding to note that Gov. Morrison is now lining up and becoming identified with the Democratic Party which has studiously avoided in all his political efforts — a and particularly the last two campaigns.

"Inasmuch as political lines are being drawn for 1964, it is rewarding to know that the governor is now promoting and advancing the philosophies of the New Frontier and John F. Kennedy to Nebraska voters," Boyle concluded.

Auburn Plant Bond Details Are Settled

Final details in the city of Auburn's $300,000 bond issue to finance a cabinet-making factory for WoodCarv, Inc., were settled Monday.

Girl With Golden Hair 'Almost 13'

By SUSAN STANLEY
Star Staff Writer

Kandra Craig is a pretty, petite girl with waistlength golden hair.

Like many other girls who are "almost 13," she will be in the 8th grade next fall.

But young Kandra is "circus people." Her father is a building superintendent for the Shrine Circus, which opened Monday in Lincoln.

Kandra's mother, according to the polite, softspoken young lady, "works ponies and elephants."

Aerial Ballet

When she was younger, Kandra worked with elephants in the circus, but she has now graduated to appearing in the opening parade — "spec" in circus jargon — the aerial ballet, and working with the ponies.

Whether performing or behind the scenes, she is an obvious favorite with the other members of the circus cast and crew.

During the winters, she and her family live in Dallas, Tex. But come summer, the family takes off again for the big top.

Circus For Life
She replies "Yes, ma'am!" when queried about the possibility of a permanent circus life for herself.

Foremost in her hopes is a horse which she wants to train and ride for the pleasure of future circus-goers.

And from the determined look in her 12-year-old eyes, chances are that Kandra Craig will be a familiar name in the circus world of tomorrow.

Complete with razzle-dazzle, satin, sequins, sawdust, chimpanzees, lions, and, of course, clowns — the Sesostris Temples Shrine Circus will continue at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum through May 11.

HOLLYWOOD HEIGHTS

In May the days are longer, the nights shorter, the weather sunnier and the activity busier — but no matter what the weatherman has in store, Suburban residents always find time to take life easy and fill their weekend calendars with their favorite type of entertainment.

And entertainment is wide and varied this week as we have news of travels, birthdays, and club meetings.

Since we mentioned travels, we found that Mr. and Mrs. James R. Lyons motored across the state recently to spend the weekend visiting friends and relatives in O'Neill.

While in O'Neill the Lyons visited with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Merriman, Mrs. Lyon's uncle and aunt and accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Lyons on the trip were their four children, Randall, Rosemary, Roxanne, and Renee.

Adding to the merriment of May was a birthday celebration at the home of Mr.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

and Mrs. John Fink on May 2.

It seems that Master John Fink celebrated his eighth anniversary with several neighborhood and school chums with an afternoon of games and, of course, the traditional ice cream and birthday cake.

John's guest list included Gen and Susan Smith, Carol and Paula Riley, Pam Wilken, Mark Cromer, Mark Rustand, Randy McGinnis, and his sister Christy.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Kessler Heights entertainment was centered around several games of bridge that have taken place recently.

Mrs. Phil James entertained the members of her monthly bridge group last Wednesday evening.

It was dessert and cards for Mrs. Marvin Garber, Mrs. Jack Mason, Mrs. James Tico, Mrs. Raymond Suggs, Mrs. Robert Day, Mrs. Robert Hannegan, and guest for the evening, Mrs. C. D. Smith.

Desert and bridge were on hand for several friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mason when they gathered at the Mason household last Friday evening.

Tallying up their scores for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Vern VanKroger, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Henderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooper.

SKYLINE TERRACE

A little belated but not forgotten wedding anniversary was celebrated in Skyline Terrace last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Little, together with their sons David and Mike, drove to Omaha to celebrate the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Risley.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Members of the Family Circle Extension Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Moss for an afternoon of homemade ice cream and chitchat.

Cook-Out Aids Scholarships

Taking a tip from the entertainment world's "captive audience" trick, the members of Mu Phi Epsilon national music sorority at the University of Nebraska rounded up a group of "captive customers" last Friday when they staged a noon cook-out lunch in the parking lot of the music building.

The customers were members of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia music fraternity who received a hearty lunch of grilled hotdogs for their money, which will augment the sorority's scholarship fund.

AAUW Ends Convention

The Nebraska Division, American Association of University Women, concluded its annual state convention at Alliance last week end with the installation of Mrs. John B. White of Lincoln, as second vice president; and Miss Ruth Harris, Hastings, treasurer.

The delegates reaffirmed their support of measures to broaden the state's tax base and to provide for a state educational television program, and also selected Lexington as the hostess city for the 1964 convention.

DG Alumnae

The May meeting of the Delta Gamma Alumnae will be held on Saturday, May 18, not on May 11 as previously announced. Mrs. Jonathan L. Waterbury will be hostess to the group at a 10:30 o'clock brunch at her home, 2421 So. 70th.

Will you be traveling? If so, you will want to know of local news happenings while you are away. The carrier boy saves newspaper copies while you are away and delivers them to you at no added cost. Before leaving, notify the Circulation Department of dates you will be gone.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

HOLLYWOOD HEIGHTS

In May the days are longer, the nights shorter, the weather sunnier and the activity busier — but no matter what the weatherman has in store, Suburban residents always find time to take life easy and fill their weekend calendars with their favorite type of entertainment.

And entertainment is wide and varied this week as we have news of travels, birthdays, and club meetings.

Since we mentioned travels, we found that Mr. and Mrs. James R. Lyons motored across the state recently to spend the weekend visiting friends and relatives in O'Neill.

While in O'Neill the Lyons visited with Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Merriman, Mrs. Lyon's uncle and aunt and accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Lyons on the trip were their four children, Randall, Rosemary, Roxanne, and Renee.

Adding to the merriment of May was a birthday celebration at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. John Fink on May 2.

It seems that Master John Fink celebrated his eighth anniversary with several neighborhood and school chums with an afternoon of games and, of course, the traditional ice cream and birthday cake.

John's guest list included Gene and Susan Smith, Carol and Paula Riley, Pam Wilken, Mark Cromer, Mark Rustand, Randy McGinnis, and his sister Christy.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Kessler Heights entertainment was centered around several games of bridge that have taken place recently.

Mrs. Phil James entertained the members of her monthly bridge group last Wednesday evening.

It was dessert and cards for Mrs. Marvin Garber, Mrs. Jack Mason, Mrs. James Tice, Mrs. Raymond Suggs, Mrs. Robert Day, Mrs. Robert Hannegan, and guest for the evening, Mrs. C. D. Smith.

Desert and bridge were on hand for several friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mason when they gathered at the Mason household last Friday evening.

Tallying up their scores for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Vern VamKroger, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Henderson, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooper.

SKYLINE TERRACE

A little belated but not forgotten wedding anniversary was celebrated in Skyline Terrace last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Little, together with their sons David and Mike, drove to Omaha to celebrate the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Risley.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Members of the Family Circle Extension Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Fred Moss for an afternoon of homemade ice cream and chitchat.

Wish we could regale you with all of the hush-hush news we have — people leaving for Europe — more people leaving for New York — travelers off to Bermuda — But we can't — until they all come home.

We can tell you, however, about little Miss Julie Russell who arrived on Friday, May 3, at Lincoln General Hospital. This small future Alpha Phi legacy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Russell, and her mother is the former JoAnn Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wallace of Greeley, Colo. — and Alpha Phi at Nebraska.

We think it is sort of too bad that Miss Julie didn't put her world debut off until Sunday, May 5 — and then again, maybe it wasn't too bad. David is Julie's brother who celebrated his third birthday on Sunday. Of course you have guessed that the young lady's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Russell.

We learned this morning that Sunday was homecoming day for Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Rohman who returned after spending the winter at their Florida home in Delray Beach.

More news of the Rohman family has to do with Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. (Ky) Rohman who left last Friday for San Francisco — a brief business trip for Mr. Rohman — and strictly pleasure for Mrs. Rohman.

On the guest list are Mr. and Mrs. Rex Olsen and their two children, Kent and Kristen, who arrived from Dallas, Tex., on Saturday, and who are the house guests of Mrs. Olsen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kent Morgan — At least Mrs. Olsen and the children are houseguests and will continue to be for several weeks — Mr. Olsen left on Sunday to return to Dallas.

From the left are hostesses, Gail Galloway, Carol Copeland of Kearney, Janet Hayward, and customer, Keith McCreight.

Of very special interest to Lincoln this morning is the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Osborn of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sharon Lee, to Pierre Joujon-Roche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Joujon-Roche of Scarsdale, N.Y.

The wedding is planned for June, and the ceremony will take place in California.

Miss Osborn is completing her freshman year at Mills College, Oakland, Calif.

Mr. Joujon-Roche is a junior at Leland Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., and is a member of Theta Xi fraternity.

Club Activities

The annual spring banquet of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority will be held Friday evening at the Lincoln Country Club. Mrs. Larry Haight is chairman for the buffet dinner, which will be followed by a program.

The regular meeting of Chapter BY, PEO, will be held Tuesday evening, May 14, not May 7, as previously announced. Mrs. Brian Hendrickson will be hostess to the group at her home, 2727 Manske.

Dear Abby

She Could Be Sued
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY A new family recently moved to town. The wife is very attractive. I heard a woman tell a large group of ladies at a tea that she had heard a rumor about the newcomer. She went into some detail, casting an ugly shadow on the woman's character. Then she smiled and said, "But I don't believe a word of it do you?" Why, then, did she repeat the story? Before long it had circulated all over town. Now everyone is speculating about the newcomer. How can a person protect herself against something like that?

WAS THERE

DEAR WAS She can sue for slander, but seldom does. My hat is off to the courageous who will silence a gossip monger's vicious attack on one who is absent and unable to defend herself. And it is good to remember that those who would repeat vicious gossip are not above inventing it.

DEAR ABBY Regarding the letter from "EXPECT-ANI FATHER" who insisted on being in the delivery room when his first child was born. My husband insisted on being present at this event, and was granted permission. Well, I had twins. My husband fainted and fell against the light switch turning out the lights I delivered in the dark. Tell husbands to stay out of the delivery room. One patient in there is enough.

P.M. (Moore Bay Calif.)

DEAR ABBY When I was married I had a fairly nice figure. My measurements were 34-25-36. About a month ago I gave birth to my first child. My measurements are now 36-34-42. My doctor agrees that I should be put on a diet but my husband says he likes me this way. He doesn't want me to lose a single pound. Abby, I love my husband and want to please him, but I'd prefer to be thinner again. Should I please myself or my husband?

PLEASINGLY PLUMP DEAR PLEASINGLY. Please your doctor. That way you'll be pleasing yourself as well, without deliberately defying your husband.

WHY GROW OLD?

Josephine Lowman

It's miserable when extra pounds drag over into summer! Many women gain from five to 10 pounds during the winter months. Some gain that much just during the Christmas holidays but procrastinate about losing the extra weight until this time of year.

I know how you feel because I gain weight very easily and have to battle the bulge constantly. Even five pounds, much less 10 can make such a difference in the way we look in swim suits, play clothes and also in revealing, light weight summer garments.

You CAN lose from five to 10 pounds in the next nine days. This week I am bringing you my 9 Day Reducing Diet which does this for you. Each day I print the menus for the following day.

Here are the menus for Wednesday.

BREAKFAST

One half grapefruit. One thin dry piece of whole wheat toast, Black coffee.

MID MORNING

Glass of skimmed milk or buttermilk.

LUNCHEON

One poached egg. One thin dry piece of whole wheat toast.

DINNER

Two crisp raw carrots. Baked fish (medium portion). One half cup green peas. Shredded lettuce salad, lemon dressing. Fresh fruit cup.

How much weight you lose depends somewhat on your metabolism and physical activity. Practically all women, however, lose weight with these menus.

Opening lead — seven of diamonds

The part score hand much neglected in the literature of the game, has its dramatic moments too. Look at this deal where South became declarer at three hearts and made the contract in a most unusual way.

West led a diamond East won with the queen and shifted to a spade. West took the king with the ace and returned a spade to the queen.

Declarer first cashed the king of hearts and then played a club and finessed the nine. East won with the queen and returned the king of diamonds. Dummy ruffed and led the king of clubs covered with the ace and ruffed by South. This was

Declarer was planning to lead the queen and another heart and would have made the rest of the tricks in this way if the hearts had been divided 3-2. But when he led the queen and West showed out, the picture changed considerably. South was now in danger of going down, having already lost three tricks. East had not ruffed than either he or dummy had.

However, he came through with a good play when he overtook the queen with the ace. Without this play he would have been defeated.

He then cashed the jack of clubs and continued with the ten. East couldn't very well discard because dummy would continue leading clubs, and he couldn't afford to ruff with the eight.

South overtrumped and led the jack of spades, discarding a club from dummy. If East ruffed now, dummy would be high, so he discarded a diamond. Declarer then ruffed a diamond in dummy to produce his ninth trick.

Suggest 'Sitters' For The Senile

... MAY RELIEVE TENSIONS

St. Louis (AP) — A leading psychiatrist suggested Monday a nationwide baby-sitting service for the senile — to help spare old folks from being hospitalized as mental patients, and also to relieve tensions among relatives now housing them.

Dr. H. C. Hardin Branch, president of the American Psychiatric Association, urged that the nation's psychiatrists take the lead in having communities develop such service whereby adults — either on a voluntary or paid basis — would be on call to "sit" with old folks and leave other members of the household free for other pursuits.

Dr. Branch, head of the psychiatry department of the University of Utah College of Medicine, said that for one thing this could relieve the younger housewife in the home of a possibly tension-filled "24 hour watch" which might lead to needs for psychiatric care for herself or other members of the family.

Relieves Tension

And, he said in an interview, by helping relieve various kinds of tension in the home, such a system could help overcome the present widespread tendency to identify old persons as psychiatric cases and to use mental hospitals as a depository for them.

"Old persons," he added, "do have some mental symptoms such as forgetfulness, but they are not really psychiatric cases . . ."

"Many times, the reason for pushing them out of the home and into a mental hospital is that, as the kids in the home get older, the old folks tend to get in the middle of the home-traffic pattern—for example, by sitting in front of the television set in the same room where the young girl of the household is trying to talk to her boy-friend."

Extra Room

"Having an extra room and an extra television set for grandma or grandpa is another way of making pressures in such a home go down."

The psychiatrist made the comments in amplifying his presidential address to the 119th annual meeting of the APA.

In his speech, he made a strong plea for the nation's psychiatrists in private practice and in hospitals to do

DOG FOUND NOT GUILTY

Butch, truly one of man's best friends, looks over his overnight quarters at metropolitan jail in Nashville, Tenn., Monday after serving a brief rap on a charge of accompanying a drunk. General Sessions Judge Robert Moses issued the papers that put Butch behind bars after a jailor balked at incarcerating him along with his master, Frank Shamay, 50 Shamay, arrested on a public drunkenness charge, posted $10 bond and went free Monday. Jailor Howard Haynes let Butch go also—without bond.

He said psychiatrists must pitch in more than they have on community problems in order to meet the challenge posed by President John F. Kennedy's recent call for the development of community-centered mental health programs.

And he told a reporter that one way for private psychiatrists to find more time for work in community clinics is to cut down, wherever possible, on the time now given by the large majority of psychiatrists to individual patients, at costs ranging from $15 to $25 a session.

He said there's growing evidence that many patients don't require such a lengthy session. But he stressed that there can be no short-cuts for psychiatric care for herself or other members of the family.

Seek Bar Of Threats To Negro

Washington (AP) — The Justice Department asked Monday for a federal court order forbidding the sheriff of Rankin County, Mississippi, from attempting by threats or violence to discourage the registration of Negro voters.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said the suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Jackson, Miss., was based on the reported assault Feb. 1 of 3 Negroes at the county court house in Brandon, Miss.

The government alleged in the suit that Sheriff Jonathan R. Edwards Jr. and two other men struck the Negroes and forced them out of the court house before they could fill out voter registration forms.

The complaint said the other two men were believed to be deputies of the sheriff. They were not identified.

Rankin County is adjacent to Jackson, the state capital.

Monday's suit is the 37th voter registration case brought by the government under the Civil Rights Act of 1957.

Of these, 11 have been filed in Mississippi. The others were brought in Louisiana, Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee.

Rankin County, the government said, has 6,944 Negroes eligible to vote, but only 4,344 are registered, compared with 6,805 of 13,245 eligible white persons.

The court was told that Edwards and two other men believed to be his deputies entered the county court house office of the circuit clerk as 3 young Negro men were filling out voter registration forms and a fourth waited for them.

The sheriff struck the fourth Negro with a blunt instrument several times without warning, the government said, while the two men accompanying the sheriff struck two of the Negroes attempting to fill out forms.

Suggest 'Sitters' For The Senile

... MAY RELIEVE TENSIONS

St. Louis (AP) — A leading psychiatrist suggested Monday a nationwide baby-sitting service for the senile — to help spare old folks from being hospitalized as mental patients, and also to relieve tensions among relatives now housing them.

Dr. H. C. Hardin Branch, president of the American Psychiatric Association, urged that the nation's psychiatrists take the lead in having communities develop such services whereby adults — either as a voluntary or paid basis — would be on call to "sit" with old folks and leave other members of the household free for other pursuits.

Dr. Branch, head of the psychiatry department of the University of Utah College of Medicine, said that for one thing this could relieve the younger housewife in the home of a possibly tension-filled "24 hour watch" which might lead to needs for psychiatric care for herself or other members of the family.

Relieves Tension

The plane, Flight 502, was bound for Ottawa.

The dead man was L. M. Schmidt, an elderly passenger from Cudworth, Sask.

Stretcher Cases

A Trans-Canada Airlines (TCA) spokesman said 5 of the injured were stretcher cases. He said the others were sent to a hospital for examination of what appeared to be minor injuries.

The 4-engine turbo-prop plane, capable of carrying 109 passengers, suffered no apparent structural damage, the spokesman said. It was grounded for a check by engineers.

The plane landed at Edmonton's International Airport, 14 miles south of the city, at 11:50 a.m. MST and was met by ambulances.

The aircraft ran into violent turbulence at 21,000 feet about 50 miles west of the Rocky Mountain house, Alta., about 25 minutes before arriving over Edmonton.

One passenger, W. E. McEwan of North Vancouver, said "it was all over in 10 seconds. There was a very brief warning . . . some got strapped in, some didn't."

McEwan said the man ahead of him flew up out of his seat, hit the overhead luggage rack and fell backwards over the seat.

Coats, hats, luggage were flying everywhere."

Thrown From Seat

One stewardess was thrown out of her seat but she recovered quickly and gave assistance to the passengers, McEwan said.

Ordinary seaman Ian Adams of Battleford, Sask., said "the plane just dropped . . . I don't know how far but someone said about 800 feet." He said the passengers had just been told to fasten their seat belts when the turbulence was encountered.

"It was no more than a few seconds and some people didn't get their belts fastened. One man across the aisle left his seat completely. He seemed to be suspended in midair for a second or two," he said.

"They didn't dare move him and the steward, and stewardesses put pillows around him and rigged up a strap effort to hold him in place. There was no panic."

Prejudice May Get Study

... DANNER TO INTRODUCE RESOLUTION

By WILLIAM B. KETTER
United Press International
Negro Sen. Edward R. Danner of Omaha announced late Monday he will introduce a resolution calling for an interim study of labor discrimination practices in Nebraska.

Danner's decision came shortly after his bill, LB347, calling for a Fair Employment Practices Act was soundly defeated by the Legislature.

The freshman lawmaker said he was "very disappointed" with the bill's fate, attributing it to "conservative thinking by this body."

"I feel this situation is serious enough to be given a comprehensive study by a committee of this Legislature," Danner said. "Discrimination does exist in Nebraska, whether the senators know it or not."

Danner said he hopes "my fellow senators" will not "shut the door" on his proposed study. "It is something which is a matter of equality," he added.

Danner also cited "lack of appreciation for human need and dignity" as reasons for the defeat of this fair employment practices bill.

"When a legislature can stand up and vote down a bill which is only attempting to grant equal opportunity to a minority group, then there is a degree of disregard for human need and dignity," Danner said.

Conservative Thinking'
The bill, Danner added, "was not considered on its merits, but merely killed by conservative thinking."

Danner noted that Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings switched his vote at the last minute "Monday for purposes of reconsideration, but added: 'For all practical purposes, I think, the bill is dead.'

Danner said he understands a move is underway to amend the bill, taking some of the broad authority away from the labor commissioner.

"I am not adverse to amending the bill, but I do not think it makes the labor commissioner an all-powerful administrator," Danner said. "Actually, it places administrative responsibility where it belongs — with the commissioner."

The actual assessment will be determined later by the 5-member board headed by Gov. Frank Morrison.

The Union Pacific, the largest freight and passenger railroad in Nebraska, asked the board to assess it on valuation of $44,247,471, down $1.2 million from 1962.

'Inflated' Values

R. R. Lines, general tax commissioner for the Union Pacific, detailed his railroad's reasons for the reduction, noting the federal government has changed its method of rating income tax investment credit, "thus giving an inflated property valuation."

He also recommended the board give more weight to obsolescence in determining 1963 depreciation.

The Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, second largest in the state, asked to be assessed on valuation of $34,504,438. This is a suggested reduction of $655,452 from 1962.

Facing the 'Facts'
Burlington tax agent J. P. Reedy said the reduction was being asked "in the face of economic facts."

The Chicago and North Western asked to be assessed on valuation of $3,344,087, down $1,055,513 from 1962.

The Rock Island asked to be assessed on $1,662,360 down $582,753.

The Missouri Pacific asked to be assessed on $1,552,602, down $324,268.

The Illinois Central, which does not operate freight or passenger service in Nebraska but maintains a bridge in Omaha, asked to be assessed on valuation of $50,762, down $5,861.

In addition to the governor, the board consists of Secretary of State Frank Marsh, Treasurer Clarence L. E. Swanson, Auditor Ray C. Johnson and Tax Commissioner Forrest A. Johnson.

Special Education Graduate Grants Go To 2 Women

State Education Commissioner Floyd A. Miller announced Monday that Mrs. Inez R. Burrows of North Loup and Mrs. Elsie H. Ensz of Beatrice have been awarded graduate fellowships in special education.

The fellowships are given for preparation of leadership personnel in the education of mentally retarded children.

The fellowships are awarded jointly by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Nebraska Department of Education.

Mrs. Burrows has been a special education teacher in the North Loup-Scotia public schools and Mrs. Ensz a special education teacher in Beatrice Junior High School.

Both women will attend the University of Nebraska this fall to work toward the master's degree in special education.

As a result, Sen. William Moulton of Omaha—speaker of the 1963 Legislature—suggested that all-day sessions be

Greetings

Since I came into this job flat on my back at St. Elizabeth Hospital these greetings are a bit belated. It is with a great deal of anticipation toward Lincoln and Nebraska's future in sports that I undertake the job as Star Sports Editor.

With considerable time during the past week with nothing much to do except think about the future of sports in Nebraska, that future would appear to be bright in many fields.

Admittedly it is tough to think about sports with beautiful nurses continually popping into one's room, but following are some thoughts on Nebraska and Lincoln sports.

NU Football Comes First

Nothing generates quite as much statewide interest as University of Nebraska football and with Coach Bob Devaney and his excellent staff at the helm Husker football fortunes reached a superior level last season and there is every reason to hope for many more. Although, one must remember that when talking optimistically about the upcoming campaign we are talking about improving or equaling a 9-2 record—a mighty high goal.

But it would appear that Nebraska may be well on its way to regaining some of the pre-World War II glories. And there is no better advertisement for the state than a winning football team. Nor is there anything that makes the farmer at Omaha or the grocer at Sutton or the barber at Ravenna feel better.

But football is not the only sport with which Nebraskans can point with pride.

There is the NU track team, Big 8 indoor champion and a solid contender for the outdoor crown despite a beating at the hands of Colorado the past weekend.

Improvement was shown the following winter in most NU sports and continued improvement can be expected with Athletic Director Tippy Dye guiding the ship.

Other Bright Sports Spots

There are other areas of sports where the future would appear bright in Nebraska, including amateur boxing, amateur baseball, golf, swimming, horse and auto racing and many others.

American Legion Activities

Nebraska's American Legion posts, always great sports boosters especially in baseball, took another big step the past spring with the formation of a 10-team American Legion Baseball League that provides for inter-city rivalries and should go a long way toward promoting interest in the Legion baseball program.

Along with the baseball, Lincoln's post, under the direction of Athletic Director John Kuhler brought Golden Gloves interest to a high level the past winter.

And although amateur boxing may be nearly dead nationally with the Chicago Tribune pulling out of the National Golden Gloves meet, Nebraska is in a favorable position for staging amateur boxing shows.

Boxing in Nebraska is not governed by the Amateur Athletic Union as it is in most states and thus need not buckle to the whims of these sports "purists."

Amateur boxing in Nebraska is governed by the Great Plains Boxing Association and don't be surprised if something isn't done about staging a regional Golden Gloves Tourney in this state. It would certainly be a thought with the increased interest shown last winter in the Golden Gloves and towns such as Fairbury have already begun work on building a program for the coming year.

Helping to promote interest last season was a resumption of smoker cards under the direction of chairman Wes Rosenstock in Lincoln and if cards could be lined up in more towns such as Norfolk and Grand Island, amateur boxing could become quite a sport in Nebraska.

Horse Racing

Horse racing in Nebraska has gotten off to a booming start this year in Grand Island and should continue right through Al-Sar-Ben, Lincoln, Columbus, Madison, Mitchell, Alliance and Atokah.

There seems to be few things that will get a person as interested in something as to have $2 of the grocery money riding on a horse.

Special Events Coming

Along with the regular sports fare, Nebraskans can look forward to such special events as the Gary Player-Arnold Palmer golf exhibition in Lincoln and the pro football exhibition in Omaha, both coming up this summer.

Yes, Nebraska is not without its sports and about the only thing that appears to be lacking is a professional baseball team. And maybe some day that will return. Here's hoping.

One last thought at the moment. Our predecessor, Don Bryant, was rewarded with an Orange Bowl trip from the NU football team in his first year on the job.

How about it, Coach Devaney?

Alternate Team Cited For 'Best Showing Of Spring'

By HAL BROWN

Several Huskers, including the entire alternate unit, were cited Monday by coach Bob Devaney for their work in Sunday's scrimmage.

"The alternate unit made its best showing of the spring," Devaney said.

This was the unit quarterbacked by Fred Duda that scored 3 quick TDs in Sunday's session. The unit consisted of Duda at quarterback with Frank Solich and Bob Holm at halfbacks and Bruce Smith at fullback.

The Husker head man praised Sunday's work, saying, "The players were hitting good, both offensively and defensively."

Devaney cited Iolo for "running well," Ted Vactor for "a couple of good defensive plays," John Kirby for his defense, Duda for "directing his unit well," plus John Abol, Mike Kennedy and Bill Johnson for outstanding performances for the lower units.

Sunday's scrimmage may have been the last before Saturday's All-Sports Day finale. A rash of injuries hit the NU camp after Sunday's session.

John Sebastian, Lyle Sittler, Jim Baffico, Dennis Carlson, John Bishop, Mike Ward and Rudy Johnson were all hobbled by injuries Monday with Sebastian and Carlson likely sidelined for Saturday's contest.

Saturday's final full-scale scrimmage will see the No. 1 and 2 units remaining nearly intact as the leaders for the Red and White squads respectively.

The top Red unit would be directed by Dennis Claridge with Mike Corgan, Jim Ross, Cletus Fischer, Tom Osborne and Dallas Dyer serving as coaches.

Duda would direct the top White team with coaches George Kelly, Carl Selmer, John Melton, Jim Hoge and Larry Donovan.

Saturday's final session will include kickoffs and teams will go both ways—offense and defense. Rudy Johnson will be handling the kickoff chores for the Reds with Vactor doing the booting for the Whites.

A number of position advancements were noted in Monday's lineups with most of them coming on the 3rd and 4th units.

Changes included:

—Willie Pauchill from No. 3 to No. 2 center.

—John Schneider from No. 4 to No. 3 center.

—Don McDermott from No. 2 to No. 3 right guard.

—SALTY OLD PRO—

Layne Quits Grid Sport

Dallas (P) — Bobby Layne, the salty old pro who quarterbacked the Detroit Lions and the Pittsburgh Steelers with an iron hand when on the field, has retired.

The announcement came Monday from Steeler Coach Buddy Parker, who earlier urged his quarterback to quit.

"He's had a lot of success. I think it's time to call a stop," said Parker. Earlier the coach said, "All great players must quit some day."

Layne, with 15 years in the National Football League, holds many career passing records.

The 34-year-old blond Texan, possessor of a fun-loving spirit who had his troubles with police at times, reached new peaks last Sept. 23 here—the city in which he first knew fame as a high school star.

On that day he shattered the career records for touchdown passes, breaking a tie of 187 shared by himself and another local hero, Sammy Baugh, formerly of the Washington Redskins and Texas Christian University.

He also went ahead of Baugh in that game with his 1,713th completion. Baugh held the old career mark at 1,709.

The Steelers won from Dallas 30-28.

"He'll be around a long time if he continues to play like that," said Parker at the time. A few months later, he said publicly that he had recommended to Layne that he quit.

Los Angeles (P) — The Los Angeles Angels came from behind on a two-run double by Albie Pearson with one out in the last of the 9th inning and pulled out of a 4-game losing streak by defeating Minnesota, 5-4, Monday night.

The Twins had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the 9th when Bob Allison singled and scored with two away on a single by Zoilo Versalles.

But, with one out in the bottom of the inning, the Angels had the bases loaded on a double by George Thomas and walks to pinch hitters Bob Sadowski and Ed Kirkpatrick.

Pearson, who had batted in two runs with a double in the 5th, followed with his game-winning hit. He got it off Bill Pleis, the 6th Minnesota pitcher, but Ray Moore, who had started the inning, took the loss. It was his first decision this season.

The Twins scored their first two runs in the 5th, when Allison was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded and Jim Hall drew a walk with the bases full.

The Angels went ahead, 3-2, in the same inning, scoring two runs on Pearson's double and the other on a sacrifice fly by Jim Fregosi. Don Mincher's sacrifice fly with the bases full tied it for the Twins in the sixth.

Dan Olsinski, the 5th Angel pitcher, gave up two hits and a run in two innings but got the victory. He is 1-0.

MINNESOTA 5, LOS ANGELES 4

Los Angeles (P) — The Los Angeles Angels came from behind on a two-run double by Albie Pearson with one out in the last of the 9th inning and pulled out of a 4-game losing streak by defeating Minnesota, 5-4, Monday night.

The Twins had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the 9th when Bob Allison singled and scored with two away on a single by Zoilo Versalles.

But, with one out in the bottom of the inning, the Angels wanted me as a pinch hitter and he said that's what Cleveland wants me for.

"We've lost 5 games to lefthand pitchers this season and I haven't started a game. That doesn't make sense.

"All I've done is pinch hit 4 times and I've gotten two hits—a home run off Jim Kaat (Minnesota) and a single off Don Mossi (Detroit)."

Called Wife

Green said he called his wife in St. Louis "and told her what I was doing."

"She told me not to worry, to do what I thought was best," said Green.

"This is a funny game," he said. "I'm not good enough to play for Cleveland, but I'm too good to be traded. I understand the Indians turned down a chance to trade me to the Angeles here last weekend.

"I'd love to play here," he said. "I think they'd appreciate me."

But no deal came off and Green decided to miss the plane when the Indians took off for Washington Monday morning. He was reached Monday night at the restaurant-motel popular among the visiting ballplayers.

Sad Dodgers Drubbed, 7-4

LOGAN'S HIT DECIDES

Pittsburgh (M) — Johnny Logan's pinch hit single with the bases loaded clinched a 4-run Pittsburgh explosion in the 6th inning Monday and kept the Pirates in first place with a 7-4 victory over the slumped Los Angeles Dodgers.

Two men were out and the score was tied 4-4 when Logan, a right-handed batter, drilled one of Don Drysdale's pitches to the opposite field, scoring Bob Clemente and Bill Mazeroski.

The Pirates had tied the game earlier in the inning when Bob Skinner drove in Ted Savage with a double to left. Skinner scored 3 batters later on an infield out.

The victory went to Joe Gibbon 2-0, who took over for starter Bob Friend in the 4th and gave up two hits before being lifted for Logan in the sixth.

Roy Face was called in when the Dodgers threatened in the 7th, but he stopped the rally and held the Dodgers in check the last two innings.

ARMY HEROES HARD PRESSED TO WIN, 3-0

West Point (N.Y.) — The New York Mets baseball heroes of West Point's Corps of Cadets, scored all their runs in the last inning of a 7th-inning exhibition game Monday and turned Army, 3-0.

The Mets were so busy basking in the adulation of the soldiers that they were unable to dent Cadet pitchers Jeff Davis and Bob Johnstone for 6 innings.

Larry Burright singled home one run in the 7th, and Jim Hickman drove in two.

Tracy Stallard struck out 13 and pitched a two-hitter for the Mets.

The New York team has been adopted en masse by the Corps. Met scores are announced at the Cadet dining hall and Met victories greeted with mighty cheers.

Sad Dodgers Drubbed, 7-4

LOGAN'S HIT DECIDES

Pittsburgh (P)—Johnny Logan's pinch-hit single with the bases loaded climaxed a 4-run Pittsburgh explosion in the 6th inning Monday and kept the Pirates in first place with a 7-4 victory over the slump-riden Los Angeles Dodgers.

Two men were out and the score was tied 4-4 when Logan, a right-handed batter, drilled one of Don Drysdale's pitches back to the opposite field, scoring Bob Clemente and Bill Mazeroski.

The Pirates had tied the game earlier in the inning when Bob Skinner drove in Ted Savage with a double to left. Skinner scored 3 batters later on an infield out.

The victory went to Joe Gibbon, 2-0, who took over for starter Bob Friend in the 4th and gave up two hits before being lifted for Logan in the sixth.

Roy Face was called in when the Dodgers threatened in the 7th, but he stopped the rally and held the Dodgers in check the last two innings.

ARMY HEROES HARD PRESSED TO WIN, 3-0

West Point, N.Y. (P)—The New York Mets, baseball heroes of West Point's Corps of Cadets, scored all their runs in the last inning of a 7th-inning exhibition game Monday and trimmed Army, 3-0.

The Mets were so busy basking in the adulation of the soldiers that they were unable to dent Cadet pitchers Jeff Davis and Bob Johnstone for 6 innings. Larry Burritt singled home one run in the 7th, and Jim Hickman drove in two.

Tracy Stallard struck out 13 and pitched a two-hitter for the Mets.

The New York team has been adopted en masse by the Corps. Met scores are announced at the Cadet dining hall and Met victories greeted with mighty cheers.

Indianapolis Driver Wrecks Rear-Engine Model; Unhurt

... ACCIDENT ANSWERS DOUBTS

Indianapolis (UPI) -- Driver year's 11 rear-engine entries turned two other practice laps at more than 149. Gurney and two other Grand Prix drivers at the Speedway -- 1962 world road-racing champion Graham Hill of England and Jim Clark of Scotland -- will leave Tuesday for a race Saturday in England. They'll hurry back and try to get in 4 more days of practice before "500" qualifications start May 18.

White owner-builder Mickey Thompson of Long Beach, Calif., was having bad luck with the Chevrolet-powered car, a rear-engine Lotus-Ford came close to the track record of 150.729 miles an hour set by Parnelli Jones in last year's time trials. The car was badly damaged, but the wreck answered question of drivers who were fearful of what could happen if one of this

Nicklaus Has Healthy Lead In Cash Won

Dunedin, Fla. (UPI) -- Young Jack Nicklaus, an easy victor in the Tournament of Champions, has opened up a $20,000 lead on the rest of the field in professional golfing's competition for money-winning laurels.

The Masters champion won $13,000 at Las Vegas this past weekend and increased his 1963 official winnings to $52,715, according to the weekly money list PGA headquarters released Monday.

Tony Lema, an "always-a-bridesmaid" type of golfer this year, moved into second place on the strength of his $5,300 runner-up payoff. Lema has now won $32,496, but has yet to win a tournament. He has been among the first 5 finishers in 8 of the 12 tournaments he has entered, however.

Robert (Junior) Johnson, a noted stock car racer, decided Monday he didn't like sitting in an open cockpit car on the Speedway and withdrew as driver of a new Kurtis-Kraft entered in the 500 by John Chalik.

Johnson, 1960 winner of the Daytona Beach 500 and 1962 winner in the Darlington 500, said "This track is not for me. I'm going back to stock car racing."

Another Speedway rookie, Colby Scroggins of Eagle Rock, Calif., was assigned to the car.

Indianapolis Driver Wrecks Rear-Engine Model; Unhurt

ACCIDENT ANSWERS DOUBTS

Indianapolis (AP) — Driver Bill Cheesbourg of Tucson, Ariz., escaped injury Monday in a wreck that probably took one of 5 rear-engine Thompson cars out of the 500-mile Memorial Day race.

Cheesbourg lost control leaving the northwest turn at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, spun 5 1/2 times and hit the outer concrete wall 6 times over a distance of 600 feet.

The car was badly damaged, but the wreck answered the question of drivers who had been fearful of what would happen if one of this year's 11 rear-engine entries hit something at high speed.

Nothing was pushed onto the driver.

While owner-builder Mickey Thompson of Long Beach, Calif., was having bad luck with the Chevrolet-powered car, a rear-engine Lotus-Ford came close to the track record of 150.729 miles an hour set by Parnelli Jones in last year's time trials.

Grand Prix driver Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., wheeled the cigar-shaped Lotus-Ford around the 2 1/2-mile track at 149.975 m.p.h. He turned two other practice laps at more than 149.

Gurney and two other Grand Prix drivers at the Speedway — 1962 world road-racing champion Graham Hill of England and Jim Clark of Scotland — will leave Tuesday for a race Saturday in England. They'll hurry back and try to get in 4 more days of practice before "500" qualifications start May 18.

Clark almost matched Gurney's speed Monday with a 149.303 lap in another Lotus-Ford. Clark's car carried the green and white British racing colors, although Green is considered unlucky on American tracks.

Robert (Junior) Johnson, a noted stock car racer, decided Monday he didn't like sitting in an open cockpit car on the Speedway and withdrew as driver of a new Kurtis-Kraft entered in the 500 by John Chalik.

Johnson, 1960 winner of the Daytona Beach 500 and 1962 winner in the Darlington 500, said "This track is not for me. I'm going back to stock car racing."

Another Speedway rookie, Colby Scroggins of Eagle Rock, Calif., was assigned to the car.

Dunedin, Fla. (AP) — Young Jack Nicklaus, an easy victor in the Tournament of Champions, has opened up a $20,000 lead on the rest of the field in professional golfing's competition for money-winning laurels.

The Masters champion won $13,000 at Las Vegas this past weekend and increased his 1963 official winnings to $52,715, according to the weekly money list PGA headquarters released Monday.

Tony Lema, an "always-a-bridesmaid" type of golfer this year, moved into second place on the strength of his $5,300 runner-up payoff. Lema has now won $32,496, but has yet to win a tournament. He has been among the first 5 finishers in 6 of the 12 tournaments he has entered, however.

Entered	W	Top	Winnings

Individual War Claims Pay Continued By Plan

BUT BAR AGAINST LOBBYISTS SET UP

Washington (AP) — Senate conferees dropped Monday their insistence on turning over a $73-million fund to the Philippine government in final settlement of World War II damage claims filed by Filipinos.

Instead they worked out with House conferees a plan to continue individual payments with a strict prohibition against any of the money ending up in the pockets of Washington sugar lobbyist John A. O'Donnell or any other "attorney or agent."

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., chairman of the Senate group called it "a more effective bar" than the original Senate ban on fee collectors.

Part of Bill

The compromise was part of a $15 billion supplemental appropriations bill which also contains $450 million for President Kennedy's accelerated public works program and $15 million for a start on Civil Defense shelters.

The bill was returned to the Senate and House for action.

Nixon's Purchase Of Apartment In N.Y. Is Confirmed

Heidelberg, Germany (AP) — The U.S. Army's European headquarters Monday night confirmed that Capt. Alfred Svenson crossed into East Germany last Saturday.

The official East German news agency ADN said Svenson, 30, had asked for asylum in the Communist country.

According to a headquarter's announcement here, Svenson, from Scranton, Pa., was assigned to the 2nd Medium Tank Battalion, 1st Cavalry, of the 3rd Armored Division. The unit is stationed northwest of Frankfurt.

Nixon is expected to move into the 12 room layout by June 1, meanwhile trying to dispose of his $150,000 home in Beverly Hills, Calif. The apartment has a maintenance cost of $10,000 a year.

The former Republican vice president defeated for the presidency in 1960 is moving to New York to join the law firm of Mudge, Stein, Baldwin and Todd.

on the conference committee dovetailing work. Both chambers must accept or reject the compromise measure in full, without making any changes.

Aside from one unsuccessful fight by Senate Republicans to trim $200 million from the $450 million public works fund, the big battle was over the Philippine war claims provision.

Collected Fees

It erupted after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee reported that O'Donnell had collected $265,000 in fees under a previous Philippine war damage payout and stood to receive anywhere from $150-

Charged

Fulbright charged that O'Donnell began lobbying for a new claims bill immediately after the commission folded up in 1951 after paying out $400 million to claimants. He said O'Donnell distributed more than $9,000 in 1960 campaign contributions to Congress members.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., and others opposed Fulbright's lump sum payment plan, chiefly on the ground that U.S. taxpayers might save from $5 million to $25 million by processing the claims here. McCarthy said it would be found that some claimants could not be located or were dead.

Fulbright disputed the extent of possible savings, arguing that the money would have to be paid to the heirs or estates of claimants no longer living.

Bars Payment

The Senate-House conferees finally settled on language which, while directing payment of individual claims by a U.S. commission, would prohibit any payment directly or indirectly to any "attorney or agents in connection with any such claims."

Each claimant would be required to certify, at the time he receives his settlement, that he will not pay any service fee to "any corporation, association, firm or other individual."

Fulbright said it would be futile to oppose the conference committee's plan, but it was clear he was not happy about it.

He told newsmen the Foreign Relations Committee "made our recommendations and considered the alternatives" in calling for the lump sum settlement plan. "Our action speaks for itself," he added.

As for the new plan, he said, "if that's the will of the conference, it is not for me to quarrel."

Rejection of the bill was a smashing defeat for Gov. Endicott Peabody and other Democratic leaders in the legislature, who had laid the prestige of their offices on the line for the abolition cause.

This was especially so since the governor led the abolition forces in a weekend drive to swing votes to their cause.

The final roll call, however, came out exactly as that of last Wednesday night when the bill first was killed by striking the enactment clause.

Monday's debate and vote was on a motion for reconsideration of that action.

Stocks Take Sharp Loss

New York (AP) — The stock market Monday took its sharpest loss in more than two months as trading dwindled to the lowest pace in a week.

Market analysts say the decline as the result of some selling for long-term capital gains in stock bought around last October's lows and also because of precautionary deck-clearing by traders who anticipate some irregularity before the market starts another sharp upside move.

In addition, the fall pattern was disrupted by published reports of the Israeli invasion and the Arab states in the oil-rich Middle East and a major decline in auto sales in the U.S. products.

The Dow Jones Industrial average fell 1.41, dropped to 4.1 million shares from Friday's 4.78 million and was the lowest since the 4 million total of Nov. 19, 1957.

Volume, however, slipped to 4.1 million shares from Friday's 4.78 million and was the lowest since the 4 million total of Nov. 19, 1957.

The Dow Jones average, which had declined 1.41 to 269.95 in its daily down 2.1 points down 1.1, and utilities, down 1.1, were the sharpest decline since Feb. 28 when the average lost 2.7.

Stocks Take Sharp Loss

New York (UPI) — The stock market Monday took its sharpest loss in more than two months as trading dwindled to the lowest pace in a week.

Market analysts saw the decline as the result of some selling for long-term capital gains on stock bought around last October's lows and also because of some of precautionary deck-clearing by traders who anticipate some irregularity before the market starts another sharp upside move.

In addition, the international oil price was damped by public reports of strife involving Israel and the Arab states in the oil-rich Middle East and a major strike was to peak weakness in oil products.

The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 4.31 to 713.77.

Volume in the market dipped to 4.1 million shares from Friday's 4.76 million and was the lowest since the 4.1 million total of May 21 a week ago.

The average price of 60 stocks declined by 1.40 with industrials down 2.4, railroads down 1.1, and utilities down 0.4.

It was the sharpest decline since Feb. 28 when the average lost 2.7.

Prices worked irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange. Volume was a million shares compared with 1.17 million.

Corporate bonds were mixed in light trading. U.S. government bonds made a general advance, moderate trading.

Amended Bill To Provide New Trade School Killed 24-16

Nebraska's Legislature decided Monday to put off for another two years a decision on whether to build another trade school in Nebraska.

In the meantime, the Legislative Council will study the dual question of need and location.

The apparently final word on trade schools for the current session was taken with a 24-16 vote to kill LB181, an amended measure reported out by the Legislature's Education Committee.

The revised bill would have authorized another trade school without naming the site.

The single present vocational-technical training school is located at Milford.

Several bills proposing establishment of another school at various Nebraska locations were introduced during the current session.

Study Approved
The issue appeared to have been laid to rest some time ago when Sen. Cecil Craft of North Platte won approval of a resolution proposing an interim study.

The Education Committee headed by Sen. Ross Rasmussen of Hooper decided, however, that a new school should be authorized at this session. It used as the vehicle LB181, originally introduced by Sens. George Gerdes of Alliance and Dale Erlwine of Grant to provide for a new trade school west of North Platte.

Because of the amended form in which the Education Committee reported out the bill, the committee itself became the bill sponsor in place of Gerdes and Erlwine.

Gerdes made the kill motion Monday after Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala was defeated 16-22 in an attempt to place the location question in the hands of the State Education Department.

McGinley's amendment would have required the State Board of Education to decide on a new trade school location by Jan. 1, 1965, after consulting with the assistant commissioner of education and the director of the Milford School, the decision subject to approval of the Legislature.

Several senators objected to any delegation of the site choosing power to the State Education Department, although Sen. Rasmussen said the decision on location should be left to "a neutral party."

Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said his budget Committee is looking for some direction from the Legislature on whether to expand the Milford school or hold down Milford expansion in favor of another trade school elsewhere.

Sen. Clifton Foster of Bradshaw suggested that the demise of LB181 would indicate a desire to "move full speed ahead with Milford."

Marvel noted that the Milford school has asked $900,000 of general fund money for the next two years in order

Sen. Clifton Foster of Bradshaw suggested that the demise of LB181 would indicate a desire to "move full speed ahead with Milford."

Marvel noted that the Milford school has asked $900,000 of general fund money for the next two years in order to expand the school to a 750-student capacity, compared with about 500 now handled. There was discussion also of the feasibility of converting the Curtis School of Agriculture into a vocational-technical school.

Sen. Albert Kjar of Lexington, who directed an interim study of the Curtis school's future following the 1961 session, said such conversion definitely is a possibility, and that the conversion would cost much less than establishing a new trade school.
